NEW YORK.

Report on the Western Union Telegraph Company.

The Red Cloud Investigation.

NEW YORK, October 13, 1875.

Western Union Telegraph.

The following is a synopsis of the annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1875, presented to-day by President Orton to the stockholders of the Western Union Telegraph Company: Gross receipts from all sources except proceeds of bonds, $9,564,574; gross expenses, $6,335,414; difference, $3,229,159, being net profit. All sums paid as rental for leased lines are included in the gross expenses. Compared with the preceding fiscal year there was an increase in the gross receipts of $301,920, a decrease in expenses of $420,319, and an increase in net profit of $722,239. There were in operation at the end of the year 72,833 miles of line, 179,294 miles of wire, and 6,565 offices. The number of messages transmitted during the year was 17,153,710, an increase of 824,454 over the preceding year. The capital stock of the company is $41,073,410, of which the company owns and has in the treasury $7,285,935. The difference, $33,787,475, is the amount of capital stock outstanding, which has been increased $1,800 during the year by the issue of eighteen shares in exchange for stock of the companies leased to the Western Union, and which have small amounts of capital outstanding, on which interest is paid as rental. The bonded debt of the company on July 1st, 1874, was $5,946,900, of which $1,498,000 is the seven per cent. gold building bonds and $4,448,900 seven per cent. currency bonds, which mature on November 1, 1875.

The annual election resulted in the choice of the following Board of Directors: Wm. Orton, Jas. H. Banker, Alonzo B. Cornell, Harrison B. Durkee, Norvin Green, Jas. Harker, Edwin D. Morgan, Augustus Schell, W. K. Thorn, C. Vanderbilt, Frank Work, Chester W. Chapin, Wilson G. Hunt, David Jones, C. Livingston, Jas. Milliken, John Duff, Levi D. Morton, O. H. Palmer, Geo. H. Pullman, E. S. Sanford, John Stewart, Moses Taylor, Daniel Torrance, W. H. Vanderbilt, W. B. Vermilye, E. O. Wesley, J. D. Mills, and E. D. Worcester. The only change in the board is the selection of Mr. Duff in place of Mr. Mumford, deceased.

The Red Cloud Investigation.

The Red Cloud Investigating Commission completed its report to-day, and are busy making copies, one of which will be sent to President Grant to-morrow, and another to the Department of the Interior. Mr. Fletcher, a member of the commission, says the report is quite long, covering five hundred pages of foolscap, and responsive to all the charges made by Professor Marsh, besides embracing a great deal of matter not referred to by him.

WOMAN'S CONGRESS.

Proceedings of the National Woman's Congress at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., October 13.—The National Woman's Congress assembled in the Weiting Opera House to-day. The attendance was not as large as at Chicago last year, although there were a number of prominent women present. Among these are Prof. Maria Mitchell, Julia Ward Howe, Rev. Phebe Hannaford, Miss Louisa Alcott, and Mrs. Livermore. All professions are fairly represented. In the morning an executive session was held, from which all persons not members were excluded. At the afternoon session Prof. Maria Mitchell delivered the annual address. Mrs. Ednae Cheney read a paper on "Woman's Work in the School," and Mrs. Antoinette Blackwell Brown spoke on "Woman's Work at Home." At the evening session Mrs. Phebe Hannaford addressed the Congress on statistics of "Women's Ministry," followed by Mary Eastman, of Turkesburg, Mass., on the "Educational Interests of the Country." The audiences attending all sessions are large. The Congress will continue on Thursday and Friday.

THE WAR OF RACES.

A Party of Colored Men Attacked in New Orleans—One Killed and Two Wounded—A Mass Meeting to Denounce the Crime.

NEW ORLEANS, October 13.—This community was shocked this morning to learn that a party of colored men was attacked late last night. One was killed outright, another mortally wounded, and a third receiving slight injuries. Two white men charged with the crime have been arrested and are in jail. The citizens assembled on the streets to denounce the great wrong perpetrated, and in the afternoon an immense mass meeting was held at the Court House, when stores were closed, that all might participate. Rev. K. C. Marshall presided, and resolutions were adopted condemning all violence, disclaiming responsibility of the deeds of last night, and pledging the support of the law of the land, which is strong enough for all. The city is perfectly quiet, with a firmer determination than ever to check violence in the future.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Vanguard Disaster.

LONDON, October 13.—The Admiralty minute exonerating vice Admiral Tarleton and Capt. Hickley from responsibility for the sinking of the Vanguard dismissed Evans, the Navigating Lieutenant of the Iron Duke.

The minute has called forth much criticism by the London press. The Times this morning, in a leading article on the subject, says it is not clear that the minute fully observes the rule that the condition of the service in the navy ought to be upheld without favor or distinction. The Daily News and Telegraph also have editorial articles on the subject and condemn the minute. The Standard (Government organ), in its comments on the matter, says the minute will not secure more public approval than the notorious Admiralty circular in regard to fugitive slaves which the Government found necessary to suspend last week. The Morning Echo says: Mr. Hunt is mistaken if he imagines he can satisfy the country by offering a Navigating Lieutenant as a scapegoat.

GERMANY.

Religious.

BERLIN, October 13.—Dr. Forster, Director of Public Worship, has issued an order dissolving his connection with the Prussian portion of his dioceses.

THE WEATHER.

OFFICE OF THE OBSERVER,
UNITED STATES SIGNAL SERVICE,
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 14, 1875—1 A. M.

Probabilities for To-day.

For the Middle and Eastern States, slowly falling barometer, northeast to southeast winds, warmer and partly cloudy weather.

A Non-Polygamous Judge.

SALT LAKE, October 13.—In the District Court to-day Judge Boreman delivered a strong charge to the Grand Jury in opposition to polygamy or bigamy, and in regard to enforcing the law of Congress of 1862, punishing the offence. He stated that it had never been respected, and every means had been used to prevent its enforcement; that the leaders of the people, while teaching this crime, repudiated it themselves when brought into a Court room; that as there is no statute in the Territory in regard to marriage, no ceremony is required and none need be proved, and called upon the jurymen to indict all persons known to be living in polygamy; that it depends on Grand Juries whether the laws shall be enforced or not, or whether Congress shall be called on to give us better laws.

Railroad Time Table Convention.

CHICAGO, October 13.—The second annual Time Table Convention of General Managers and Superintendents of Railroads of the United States and Canada was held here to-day, nearly all roads being represented. A committee appointed to make a schedule recommended that the schedules of last winter be adopted again with a few alterations. This suggestion was unanimously concurred in by the Convention. The table goes into operation on November 21st. The next meeting will be held at Cincinnati, on the second Wednesday in April. By the action of the Convention, no road will be allowed to run passenger trains at a faster rate of speed than that laid down by the schedule. Nothing was done concerning the fast mail train.

Soldiers' Reunion in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 13. — The soldiers' reunion of to-morrow and Friday promises to be an immense success, and active preparations are being made to give the boys a generous reception on their arrival in the city. Orders have been received from Washington instructing the commanding officer of the Indianapolis arsenal to turn over certain ordnance stores to General Foster, to be used to-morrow. The soldiers' orphans of the Soldiers' Home at Knightstown will participate in the parade on Friday. Assistant Quartermaster General Ekin has written a letter accepting an invitation to be present. A number of distinguished army officers are expected.

Revenue Cases in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, October 13.—In the revenue cases before the United States Circuit Court to-day an application was made for a continuance on the indictments against the Rindskopf Bros., on account of the absence of material witnesses. The Court determined that they should be put at the bottom of the calendar. A count in one of the indictments was quashed on account of duplicity. In the case against Weiller & Taft a motion was made to quash the indictment on the ground that it included a liquor dealer and a revenue officer in the same count. The argument was not concluded.

GEN. EKIN.

An Interesting Letter of Personal Reminiscences.

We clip from the Elizabeth Herald the following interesting and gossipy letter from a gentleman who is well known in this city, and is equally as popular. The letter explains itself:

"The following is a private letter from General James A. Ekin which we publish without any authority from the General to do so, and for taking this privilege we hope to be excused. The letter was an interesting epistle to us, and we know it will be eagerly read, and prove as interesting to our readers and the many friends of the General in this vicinity. We also beg the General's pardon on account of the mistake mentioned in his letter. It was entirely unintentional on our part:

LOUISVILLE, Ky., October 5, 1875.

EDITOR "HERALD"—My dear sir: I observe that in republishing, in your excellent paper of the 2d inst., the kind and complimentary notices which originally appeared in the Courier-Journal of this city, relative to my retirement from the charge of the Jeffersonville depot, you are pleased to refer to me as a "former citizen" of Elizabeth.

Permit me to say while fully appreciating the friendly spirit that prompted your introductory paragraph, that you have unintentionally mis-stated the relation I have to old Elizabeth. I have always claimed, and still claim, to be one of her citizens. Although my official residence may be far removed from the beautiful bank of the Monongahela, I know no other home than Elizabeth—a borough laid out by my grandfather and named after my grandmother. There my mother was born, and there the earlier and most pleasant years of my manhood were passed. I am a taxpayer and a voter in Elizabeth, and every ballot that I ever cast was deposited at the window of its polling place. There is not a spot of ground in or around it which I do not well remember, and the sound of the old boat-yard bell is still familiar to my ears. In youth I have rambled over the green hills and smiling valleys of Elizabeth township, have drank from its crystal springs, bathed in its limpid streams, and worshiped in the beautiful church of Bethesda, nestled among the hills a short distance from the town. In manhood I have been identified with its business interests, and have contributed all within my power to build up its trade and prosperity.

Around Elizabeth therefore cluster many precious recollections upon which I love to dwell. The bright scenes and dear friends of earlier days are continually passing before me in memory, as in some brilliant and beautiful panorama. Wherever I am, my heart, with all its affections, still fondly turns to my old home; and there, after the turmoil of busy official life, I hope to pass in quiet the remaining of my days.

In view of all these considerations, may I not justly claim to be still a citizen of Elizabeth, and will you not be pleased to so regard and designate me?

Very respectfully and truly,
Your friend and fellow citizen,
JAMES A. EKIN,
Deputy Quarter Master General,
U. S. A.

EASTERN OHIO.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6, 1875.

I send you a few pencilings from this part of our great Buckeye State. Your paper is read here, and is regarded politically sound and of good morals.

We are in the Tuscaraurus valley, noted for its beauty and fertility. In our adjacent hills are iron ore and coal. These are beginning to yield us a revenue of wealth. They promise more in the near future. We have some capital and enterprise; we need more. Your city could furnish them. The return would abundantly pay. Some of your capitalists have been here recently with a view of starting some kind of manufactories. We feel encouraged.

Harvest.

The yield the present season of this valley has been very large. The harvest of all kinds of grain is abundant. The gathering, however, on account of the continuous wet weather, was difficult, and with much damage.

The wheat is not salable; the flour made from it must be of an inferior quality. The corn crop is heavy, and most of it is safe. Potatoes being abundant are a drag on the market,—will not pay for the raising.

Fair.

Our County Fair came off last week. It was not a success in any way. The rain was against it. The testing of horse speed, at the expense of public morals, was the chief feature of the whole concern. It is high time these Agricultural Fairs should have their programme—Horse Races. That is really what they are.

Religious.

Last Sabbath Rev. T. M. Hudson, well known to many of your readers, filled the pulpit of the M. E. church of this city. He preached in the morning to a large audience a most excellent sermon. He lectured in the evening to a crowded house on "Fifty-four years of Methodism." The lecture gave great satisfaction.

Our people enjoyed the visit of this venerable man of God very greatly. He carried away with him their hearts' best benedictions.

THE ELECTIONS.

The First Accounts of Republican Victories Confirmed.

OHIO DEMOCRATS HOPING AGAINST HOPE.

No Show for Inflationist Allen.

NET GAIN FOR HAYES THUS FAR 8,000.

The Republican Majority in Iowa 35,000.

A Larger Republican Majority in the Legislature Than Ever.

THE REPUBLICANS OF NEBRASKA STILL 10,000 AHEAD.

OHIO.

DAYTON, October 13.—Montgomery county complete gives Allen 822 majority, and Cary 576. One Republican and two Democrats are elected Representatives. The Democratic Senator in this district was elected. The Soldiers' Home polled 1,200 votes, giving Allen a majority.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, October 13.—A most remarkable change in the political feeling has occurred this evening. At noon the Democrats conceded the State to the Republicans by from 10,000 to 15,000, but this afternoon they received private advices, which considerably changed their figures, steadily cutting down Hayes' prospective majority. This evening the Democratic Committee closed their headquarters to outsiders, and have since been figuring on the result, and now claim that Hayes, if elected at all, will not have over 2,500 majority. This result, the committee claim, is reached from figures received from their private correspondents in fifty-three counties and thirty-five counties to hear from. Thompson, the Democratic Chairman, says they yet hope to prove Allen's election by a small majority. This news has spread like wildfire, and men who were confident to-day, and jubilant over having won considerable sums of money on Hayes' election, now fill the Republican committee rooms, anxiously inquiring for news.

A. T. Wikoff, Chairman of the Republican committee, admits his news of this afternoon will cut down Hayes' prospective majority, but claims he has no news at all in keeping with the news at the Democratic rooms. He declares he cannot see how it is possible to overcome Hayes' majority. Republican figures give the Republicans nine majority in the House, not counting four considered doubtful, and three majority in the Senate, with four members yet in doubt.

Later.

A revision of the Republican figures gives Hayes a net gain of 8,431 in fifty-six counties. On the other hand, Democratic figures claim that Hayes will not have over 2,000 majority.

CINCINNATI, O., October 13.—Revised figures on the vote of Hamilton county give Hayes 24,498 and Allen 24,049; Republican majority 449.

COLUMBUS, October 13.—I have just called on J. G. Thompson, chairman of the Democratic Central Committee, and learn that he has returns from sixty-six counties and estimates of the other twenty-two. This includes the returns of 6,000 Republican majority in Cuyahoga and 1,100 in Hamilton. He regards both these returns as too large, but taking them for granted to be true, says it cannot give Hayes more than 2,500 majority. Wikoff, of the Republican Committee, says he has yet to hear from fourteen counties considered Republican and ten Democratic, and so is unable to give definite figures. Returns from fifty-seven counties now in show a net Republican gain of 7,768.

The Latest.

CLEVELAND, October 14.—Full returns from Cuyahoga county give Hayes a majority of 6,364, a gain over 1873 of 3,763. The entire Republican county ticket is elected. The Republicans are jubilant. A salute was fired to-night over the favorable returns.

COLUMBUS, October 14—1 A. M.—Additional returns do not materially change the result on Governor.

Sharp Correspondence.

The following sharp correspondence is a portion of the election amenities of the Ohio campaign. The Democratic State Executive Committee to-day sent the following dispatch:

"COLUMBUS, October 13, 1875.—To Hon. Hendrick B. Wright, Chairman of the State Democratic Committee, Philadelphia: The State has gone for Hayes by a small majority. The returns indicate that the Democracy polled a vote thirty thousand larger than was ever cast for any man elected Governor of Ohio. Our defeat was the result of the most lavish expenditure of money which ever characterized a political contest, the colonization of fraudulent votes, and the introduction of the false issue on the public schools, which excited the prejudice and bigotry of religious hate.

(Signed) "JOHN G. THOMPSON,
"For the Democratic Executive Committee."

The Other Side.

The Republican Committee, to show the other side of the question, to-night send the following dispatch:

"COLUMBUS, Ohio, October 13, 1875.—To Hon. Henry M. Hoyt, Chairman of the Republican Central State Committee, Philadelphia, Pa.:—The dispatch of John G. Thompson, Chairman of the Ohio Democratic Committee, of this State, to the chairman of the Pennsylvania Democratic Committee, so far as it relates to frauds for perpetrated and lavish expenditure of money by the Republicans of this State, is a falsehood, and he knew it when he signed it.

(Signed.) "A. T. WIKOFF,
"Chairman."

Celebrating the Victory.

NEW ORLEANS, October 13.—The following was telegraphed this afternoon to A. T. Wikoff, Chairman of the Republican committee at Columbus, O.: "We celebrate your victory with 100 guns now being fired. The Conservatives here vie with the Republicans in congratulations over the defeat of inflation heresy.

"T. B. PACKARD,
"Chairman Republican Committee."

INDIANAPOLIS, October 13.—The Republicans held a jollification meeting tonight over the Ohio election.

IOWA.

DES MOINES, IA., October 13.—The official vote in this (Polk) county gives a Republican majority of 898. The Republican county ticket is elected, with one exception, by majorities ranging from 679 for Sheriff to 1,281 for Auditor. The Democrats have elected the Treasurer by 373 majority.

DES MOINES, October 13.—Up to this hour (11 P. M.) the State Register has special dispatches giving complete reports from sixty-one of the one hundred counties of the State. Of these fifty-three give Republican majorities aggregating 5,002. These counties represent three-fourths of the State, and the returns from them indicate a Republican gain over 1874 of 300. The counties not heard from are mostly in the northwestern part of the State, the strongest Republican counties in the State. The Register intimates that this will make the total Republican majority in the State 33,000, a gain of a little over 5,000.

The Register's specials up to this hour show a Republican gain of two in the Senate, and in the House the loss of five. This, with the others to come in, will make the House stand seventy-five Republicans to twenty-five Democrats. The Senate will stand forty Republicans to ten Democrats.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, October 13.—Specials to the Dubuque Times from nearly all the counties in Northern and Central Iowa show a considerable Republican gain for Kirkwood over the majorities of last year, when the Republican candidates for Secretary of State had 29,000 majority. This would indicate his election by from 35,000 to 40,000. The Legislature will be much more strongly Republican than two years ago, insuring the election of a Republican United States Senator in place of Senator Wright. In Northern Iowa the Republicans probably lose a Senator in Clayton county, but will probably gain one in Jackson. They again one representative in Linn, three in Dubuque, two in Jones, one in Winneshick, one in Clinton, and one in Chickasaw. In this county the Republicans will have a clear Republican representation in the Legislature for the first time in its history, having, it is now believed, elected all the members.

NEBRASKA.

OMAHA, October 13.—Complete returns come in very slowly. Enough, however, is known that the estimated Republican majority, 10,000, is none too low. Douglass goes strongly Republican, except in the case of Sheriff, where the Republican candidate was elected by only sixteen votes, and Col. James W. Savage, Democrat, for District Judge, whose majority is 491. The new Constitution has doubtless been carried by a very large majority. It is not expected anything like a complete statement can be rendered before Saturday.

OBITUARY.

Death of Rev. J. S Stuchell.

Announcement was made yesterday morning of the death of Rev. Joseph St. Clair Stuchell, pastor of the Hazlewood Presbyterian church. The sad event occurred Tuesday evening about nine o'clock, and was the result of a malignant attack of that dread disease diptheria. He took sick on Monday of last week, with what at first seemed to be a heavy cold and sore throat. Medical aid was at once called in, but despite all efforts the disease made rapid progress. Finally a consultation of physicians was held and everything that medical skill could suggest was done for his relief, without avail. He became unable to swallow food, in any form whatever, and lingered in great pain until death ended the struggle.

The deceased was in the forty-first year of his age. He had been pastor of the Hazlewood Presbyterian Church for five years. Prior to this he was pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Monongahela City; also of the church at Elizabeth, Pa., and also of a Presbyterian Church in Baltimore. He was quite successful in his ministerial career, and under his administration the church at Hazlewood enjoyed a very large measure of spiritual and temporal prosperity. As a preacher he ranked high, and as a pastor he was kind, attentive, faithful, and was always a visitor who found a sincere welcome. Among his parishioners he was greatly beloved, and in the outside community was held in universal esteem. As a Christian, a minister and a man, he moved among men, doing kindly ministries, and wielding an influence, that leaves his name one that will long be fragrant in the church and in the community in which he lived and labored, and from which he went home to his reward.

The remains of the deceased will be buried at Elizabeth, and the funeral services will be held in the church at Hazlewood at a time to be announced hereafter. A widow and four little children are left to mourn his loss.

Death of W. H. Brown.

Intelligence was received in the city yesterday of the death of Mr. W. H. Brown, the Coal King of Pittsburgh. He had been under medical treatment for several months past, at Kirkbride's Asylum, Philadelphia, where he had been sent to recover from an illness superinduced by over work.

The deceased was one of the most successful and most widely know business men of Pittsburgh. For years he had been in the lead in the special business to which he gave his attention. He commenced at the lowest round of the latter, without any advantages of position or education. He was born in Westmoreland county, and during the early days of the old Portage railway, commenced life as a driver on the canal. He was frugal in his habits, and from the outstart practiced economy, and after having been employed for some time on the canal he removed to this city, where he commenced business as a coal hauler. He continued to prosper, and in a brief time entered into a partnership with W. A. Herron & Co., in bringing coal to the city in flats. Retiring from this firm, he subsequently became connected with Messrs. Lloyd & Black, who then supplied passenger and other steamboats with coal, and finally bought the interest of his partners and continued the business himself. From that time forward he made the coal business a specialty, and during the years that have intervened he has accumulated large tracts of coal lands, fully equipped works and railways, a large number of steamboats and innumerable boats, barges, model barges and other species of craft used in transporting coal to the lower ports. In addition to his coal business, however, he was extensive engaged in other enterprises, including rolling mills, coke furnaces, blast furnaces and a variety of other manufacturing establishments.

His business enterprises were thus extended in many departments, but he gave much of his personal attention to all of them and was thus uniformly successful. He seemed "to be made for business" and was always clear-headed and far-sighted in his transactions, so that every enterprise he undertook seemed to be successful from the outstart. His success was due rather to those business qualities united to assiduous attention rather than to any fortuitous aids outside the regular channels of trade. His success, however, though so brilliant, brought with it its penalties. He was mentally and physically overworked, and at last even his iron constitution began to give way under the strain. He retired from active business about two years ago and sought rest and recreation in Western travel, but returned not greatly improved. Last winter his health had failed so greatly that he was taken to Kirkrides asylum in Philadelphia, for treatment. At first hopes were entertained of his recovery but these all proved delusive and a few days since death by paralysis ended his mortal career.

The deceased leaves three sons and two daughters, his wife having died several years since. The remains will be brought to the family residence at Brown's station, on the Pittsburg and Connellsville Railroad, from whence the funeral will take place.

STATE HOMŒPATHIC SOCIETY.

Commencement of Its Eleventh Annual Session—The President's Opening Speech—Annual Address Last Night by Dr. J. H. McClelland—New Members.

The Homeopathic State Medical Society of Pennsylvania commenced its eleventh annual session yesterday morning, in the Common Council chamber, City Hall, with Dr. J. E. Jones, of West Chester, presiding. Among the persons in attendance were Mrs. Canfield, of Titusville, and Miss Chapman, of this city, both M. D.'s. Dr. McClatchey, President of the Society, was absent, because of the death of his wife. The address of welcome in behalf of the Allegheny County Homœopathic Medical Society was delivered by Dr. Marcellin Cote, and responded to by the chair.

The formal address of Dr. McClatchey was read by Mr. Jones. In commencing it referred to the advantages which result from concerted action on the part of physicians and the benefits which follow the annual and club meetings where subjects could be fully discussed. He said: "Homeopathic physicians are a decided minority in the profession. The majority, with a few honorable exceptions, entertain towards us an intense and unreasoning hostility, the manifestations of which may vary from time to time, but the spirit of which does not change." He then referred to the various measures adopted by the opposition and claimed that the only way in which they could be successfully resisted was through concerted and well considered action. He claimed that as the attacks are aimed through the Legislature and through the people, the source of all power, the same agencies must be invoked to counteract them. He thought the only safety lies in the conviction which is so deeply rooted in the minds of the American people that every citizen has the inherent right to think and act according to his own judgment, so long as he does not infringe upon the liberties of his neighbors. He thought it imperative to keep before the people the justice of their claims to freedom in practice and in teaching, and to an equitable share in the public appointments.

UNITY OF ACTION.

The report goes on at some length to show the importance of union in action among homeopathists, and the burying of all personal jealousies and abandoning of unfriendly cliques. Reference is then made to the fact that during the past year a Homeopathic hospital was established in the city of New York, while the President indulges in very complimentary remarks relative to the management of the Pittsburgh Homeopathic hospital. During the year the venerable rector of the University of Buda-Pesth, in Hungary, endeavored to have the homeopathic Professors ousted from that institution, but he failed. The homeopathic Professors replied to him with a simple statement, in parallel columns, of the respective mortality in the homeopathic ward and allopathic ward of St. Rochus' hospital, connected with the university. The testimony of these figures was overwhelmingly in favor of homeopathists.

RATIO OF CASES.

The Homeopathic Asylum for the Insane at Middletown, N. Y., has been in successful operation during the year. The ratio of cures has been twenty-five per cent. The physicians report that their success in quieting even the most violent patients with homeopathic remedies has surpassed all that could have been expected from other means. President McClatchey makes an appeal to his brethren of Pennsylvania to emulate the example of their colleagues in New York in this particular, and endeavor with everything in their power to procure an equitable share in the public hospitals and a generous endowment and support for our insane asylum.

The address concludes by referring to the fact that there will be held in Philadelphia, on the occasion of the Centennial next year, a World's Homeopathic Convention, and suggesting that the Pennsylvania society make some arrangements for giving a fitting reception to that convention. He suggests that this society, as other State societies have done, provide an appropriation, as the Homeopathists of this State, to the convention fund.

The suggestions relative to arranging the reception were referred to a committee, consisting of Drs. Sipe and McClelland, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Preston, of Norristown.

SOCIETY REPORTS.

A report of the proceedings of the Hahneman club, of Philadelphia, submitting conclusions arrived at from investigations of the subjects of heart disease and ventilation, was presented by Dr. Bushrod James, of Philadelphia, and received. Reports were also submitted by Dr. Caruthers, from the Allegheny County Homeopathic Medical Society and the Allegheny County Materia Medica Society; by Dr. H. N. Martin from the Philadelphia Social Medical club; by Dr. Buffum from the Allegheny County Anatomical Society; by Dr. James, from the Philadelphia County Medical Society, by Dr. Burgher, from the Homœpathic Hospital of Pittsburgh, also, a verbal report from the American Institute of Homeopathy, held at Put-in Bay; by Dr. J. H. Marsden, from the Cumberland Valley Medical Society, and by Dr. Mahlon Preston, from the Chester County Society. Dr. Childs, of the Auditing Committee, reported that they had audited the accounts of the Treasurer and had found them all correct. Report accepted. Dr. J. F. Cooper, of Allegheny, presented a report of the Committee on Subscriptions, after which the report of the Recording Secretary of the State Society was presented by Dr. M. M. Walker, of Germantown. The reports were accepted.

A resolution offered by Dr. B. W. James, providing for the appointment of a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sympathy of the Society for Dr. McClatchy, who has been, by death, bereft of his wife, was unanimously adopted.

NEW MEMBERS.

The Board of Censors recommended for membership the following physicians, who were duly elected: John C. King, Allegheny City; W. C. Goodenough, Philadelphia; R. C. Darit, Bellefonte; H. J. Gamble, Monongahela City; Miss Nellie J. Chapman, Pittsburg; Frank J. Slough, Foglesville, Pa.; T. Morris Strong, Pittsburg; W. C. J. Slough, Foglesville; L. J. Bradford, Bradford county; Jas. L. Dunn, Conneautville; W. H. Guernsey, Philadelphia; J. Deitrick, Sharpsburg; C. Moter, Jr., Philadelphia; Mrs. C. T. Canfield, Titusville; R. Ramage, Allegheny; J. S. Skeel, Erie. The resignation of Dr. Bowman, of Chambersburg, was also reported by the Board.

Dr. Farrington presented a series of provings of "Natrum Phosporicum," also "Calcerea Carbonica and Silicia compound as nutritive remedies," which were accepted and referred to Committee on Publication. Dr. J. F. Cooper offered a series of "Provings of Arsenite of Soda." These were made by twelve physicians and students of Allegheny county. The paper was accepted, with a request that the provings be arranged by Dr. Cooper before publication. Dr. C. presented another paper entitled "Observations and Reflections upon Pharmacy," which was accepted.

The Society then adjourned until three o'clock in the afternoon.

Afternoon Session.

The Society reconvened at the appointed hour, and there being no discussion on the report of the Bureau of Materia Medica and Provin, s, it was closed.

The following papers were reported by the Bureau of Chemical Medicine: "Cystic diseases," by members of the Allegheny County Medical Society, including the following divisions of the subject: "Acute and Cronic Cystites," by J. C. Burgher, M. D.; "Versical Iritability," by J. S. Rankin, M. D.; "Atony" and "Paralysis of the Bladder," by J. H. Buffum, M. D.; "Versical Spasms," by R. E. Carothers, M. D.; "Enuersis," by W. F. Edmundson, M. D.; "Rest as a Remedy," by Bushrod W. James, M. D.; "Cases Confirming Symptoms," by E. A. Farrington, M. D. A verbal report of cases was also presented by H. N. Martin.

The papers originated a discussion, in which nearly all the members present took part.

THE ANNUAL ADDRESS.

A large and fashionable audience assembled in the evening, at Library Hall, to hear the annual address before the Society of Dr. J. H. McClelland, of this city. The speaker was introduced in a few words by Dr. Jones, Vice President of the Society.

Dr. McClelland read his address, and in commencing he stated that it sometimes occurs in high art that a sketch or painting possesses, not so much the perfection of finish and deail, as a suggestive character, so that the cultivated observer fills up and extends the theme with his own refined conceptions, and the ideal of the artist is thus more than realized. So in his sketch of a mighty theme could be but imperfectly outline that which would prove suggestive to the cultivated minds of the assemblage it would be all he could hope to accomplish. The study of man's highest nature—the mind—he urged as in every way worthy, and of surpassing interest, and said that in his treatment of it he would divide his discourse into three topics, viz.: First—The nature of the mind. Second—The relation of the mind to the physical organization. Third—The relation of the mind to medicine. Under the first head he discussed ideas prevalent centuries before and after the Christian Era regarding the soul, which he pronounced the crowning blessing of Diety to man, and said that we are now to bring to a focus the light of past ages, and answer for ourselves the question, "What is the nature of the mind." Since the days of Aristotle the mind has been believed to be immortal, and to-day we not only give assent to what is almost self-evident, but believe it to be a divine spirit, clothed with the divine power of thought, and imbued with faculties which make man a wonder to man. True, it is united with the body, and all that we know of it is by physical manifestation and phenomena, but we deny that all the achievements of the intellect can be traced back to primary sensation; we deny that the soul has no native instincts and intuitive powers of perception and thought.

THE BRAIN.

In considering the second topic the Doctor discussed the brain as the special organ of the mind. John Stuart Mill said that we may probably never know whether organization alone can produce life; but that mental operations have material conditions cannot be denied by any one who admits that the mind employs the brain as its material organ. But while it is unquestionably true that every portion of our physical frame exerts an influence upon the mind, and that the mind reciprocally affects every portion of the body, it is also true that the grand hemispherical ganglia called the brain is the special organ of the mind. The speaker detailed at length the relation existing between the brain and the mind, and said that it would be more interesting, indeed, to trace the relations which the varied faculties of the intellect, the emotions, and the will, sustain to particular portions of the brain, but these researches are still in their infancy.

MIND AND MEDICINE.

The concluding topic of the address—the relation of mind to medicine—was, as discussed, of absorbing interest.

He argued that if diseases of the physical organism induce or are accompanied by corresponding disturbances of the mental faculties, drugs which undoubtedly disturb bodily condition, must show similar effects upon the mental. It could be shown, he said, that these effects produced by drugs exhibit an exact similarity to the effects we find in disease, both in body and mind. Now you can readily conceive that in order to produce these effects they must of necessity act upon the very parts diseased, and in the manner of the diseased action, else they could not produce similar symptoms. What a wonderful advantage does this give to the homeopathist in obscure diseases, for every disease, however obscure, must have a language—symptoms—and as drugs make their effects known in the same manner, the one corresponding to the disease may thus be known.

But does it necessarily follow that, although drugs do possess this power of inducing such striking resemblances to disease that they will cure them? Naturally it does. Every child in science knows that a force will neutralize a force similar to itself. We find it true in electric force, two negatives neutralize, and it is the same with the positives. And so in regard to the microscope, the rays of the sodium flame, which are yellow, are destroyed by passing them through a yellow medium. It is a law with all force—medicinal or otherwise. It is universal and medicine with this basis is raised to the dignity of a science.

In finishing the Doctor said: How much we shall one day know of men, doth not yet appear, but this we do know that whatever progress be made in other directions, the grandest attainments of science remain for the student of man, in his highest nature. In view of what has been said, nay of what has not been said, but is known, is it not true that the achievements of the future in mental diseases will be in that of our beloved science, homeopathy.

The Society meets again at nine o'clock this morning in the Common Council chamber.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 116⅜.

AFFAIRS at Washington compel the President to hurry to the Capital. The selection of a new Secretary, and other important business awaits his presence, and his contemplated visit here is delayed, at least for a time. Whether he will visit our Exposition will be known in a few days.

THE death of REV. J. S. SUTCHELL, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Hazlewood, removes from our midst an active, earnest, gentlemanly and faithful Christian minister, whose loss will be severely felt. He was one of those quiet, constant workers, who are ever doing good, in an unostentatious way. He was much beloved by his people, and his death will be felt as a personal affliction in a large circle.

A STRANGE report was telegraphed from London yesterday, that the Sultan had offered GLADSTONE, the Liberal leader in England, $250,000 to establish a sound financial basis for Turkey. There is just enough, in the relative positions of the two parties, to make this report probable. Turkey, with a splendid income, is financially rotten, and her resources are insufficient to meet her current expenses. GLADSTONE enjoys, very properly, a fine reputation as a financier, and were he to accept the Sultan's commission, would do all possible to realize his wishes. The trouble in Turkey, however, reaches farther than the mere lack of financial system. The utterly corrupt character of Turkish officials is the great evil that must be overcome. Still, a good system might be made to yield honest accountability after a time.

THE election in Iowa was as much a surprise as was the splendid majority gained in Ohio. So fully did the contest in Ohio absorb the attention of the people, that the less prominent struggles in the strongholds of Republicanism were not so largely noticed. Had our majorities there been but trifling, no one would have been dispirited or surprised. But the great victories achieved are as gratifying as they are suggestive. They show that the people are not at all given to Democratic views; but that, when the lines are distinctly drawn, they are Republican to the core. The small triumphs of the Democracy last year were given them partly through accident, and partly to teach Republicans that they are not to be forgetful that the people control the destinies of parties. This over, and the Democracy were suddenly inflated with the notion that they were on the eve of gaining national power. We hope they will take good heed to the lessons of Tuesday.

WHAT IT MEANS.

The fuller returns from Ohio indicate that HAYES has been elected by even a larger majority than we credited him with, the probabilities reaching from 11,000 to 12,000. This result was reached despite the utmost efforts of the Democracy. Both parties were fully aroused, and the canvass was, in all respects, the finest we ever witnessed. Skill in management, energy in the use of appliances, skill in debate, and a thorough intensity of purpose, marked the contest in behalf of both parties. Questions which, as to their abstract principles, do not usually agitate the people, were made to interest all classes, and to engage the attention of the learned and unlearned. Servants and shop girls were inspired to discuss the recondite features of political economy, as applied to currency; and those unlearned in practical theology gravely considered the relations of Catholic-Democracy to the public schools. Hard money and soft, inflation and contraction, resumption and repudiation, were largely and fully discussed, even among the masses. On the side of the Democracy, it is but fair to say, were speakers of fine ability. In point of argumentative strength, EWING actually excelled WOODFORD, with whom he debated; but the Democratic speakers were weighted down with a dishonest platform, and the blatant nonsense of ALLEN and CARY. There was a palpable insincerity in their most vehement utterances, and this was manifest to the people.

The result in Ohio illustrates that mere catching after popular favor is, at best, but wretched policy. The platform of the Democracy there, as it is in this State, was hollow and insincere. It did violence to the real sentiments of the party, and to its utterances for years past. The natural and legitimate position of the party is that of specie payments, and State banks. It has favored these during its entire history, and really holds to them to-day. If it really wished to change, being convinced of the value of our National banking system, there was an honest and straightforward way of doing it. The attitude of the party in the past, the merits of the greenback system and of the National bank system could have been recited, and the whole arrangement openly and fully endorsed. This would have been honest, manly and sincere. But from an attitude of hostility to the greenback system, they suddenly turned to a policy of absolute and unlimited inflation. There were no explanations, no reasons for the change, and no attempts to explain the inconsistency. Very naturally the people suspected them of insincerity, and had no faith in their pretentious promises. It was a self-evident piece of hypocrisy,—a case of blatant charlatanism, and as such the people repudiated it.

The Democratic party has strangely adopted, of late years, the policy of a drowning man,—to catch at straws. Steady, continuous defeat does not seem to cure it of this propensity, or to learn its leaders wisdom. When VALLANDIGHAM enunciated his new departure,—the abandonment of all the ideas and doctrines of the old Democratic party, and the taking up of Republican ideas, he was applauded and admired as the leader of a new crusade. It never entered the brains of the silly creatures that the people would not trust Democrats to carry out Republican measures. Yet they clung to this, infatuated, and actually accepted GREELEY as their Presidential candidate. The crushing defeat that came upon them three years ago taught them the unwisdom of this course. This year, however, there was a revival of the same silly policy, intensified, however, by absolute dishonesty. It was seen that the business of the country was depressed, and the idea obtained that by promising unlimited greenbacks, they would catch the popular feeling and ride into power. They did not take into account the fact that the masses of the American people are both honest and intelligent. Possibly, their defeat in Ohio will learn them something.

The convention and platform in this State were modeled by the Democracy upon that in Ohio. The heat of the canvass was taken for a popular tide, and the silly creatures who managed the resolutions at Erie, thought they were putting themselves in that "mighty current," in the midst of which PERSHING is declared to be but a drift weed. The truth is, it is the most stupid, inconsistent, and ignorant declaration on financial subjects we ever read. It declares the Resumption act contracts the currency when it actually expands it. It demands that national banks shall give way to State banks,—a measure which would contract both volume of currency and debt, as it would compel all who have notes in bank to pay them. And finally, it demands that the currency shall remain as it now is. Thus if the Ohio Democracy were repudiated for simple hypocrisy, what can be expected in this State where both hypocrisy and stupidity characterize their platform. The people of this country can tolerate anything better than an attempt to cheat and deceive. This was all that the Ohio platform did; and ALLEN flying in the face of his life-long record, and CARY with his brave impudence, did not improve the situation. Their boldness and energy did something, but this, with the efforts of others, and the money spent could not save a hypocritical party from defeat.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

A clear idea of the importance and significance of a well contested election, may be found in the utterances of the several papers regarding it. The New York Herald says of the Ohio election: "It may be looked upon as a fortunate deliverance from a great political danger. "All the tears lie in an onion" which the Democrats of New York will shed over the defeat of their party in Ohio; for although the progress of Democratic victories is arrested, and a further humiliation awaits the party in Pennsylvania, the Democracy are not so hopelessly damaged as they would have been by the re-election of Governor Allen. But although his defeat is a lesser evil to the Democratic party than his election would have been on an inflation platform, the rejoicing over this canvass will all be on the side of the Republicans. They have reconquered a great State, which they lost two years ago, and, what is more important, they stand before the public as the successful champions of a sound currency, gaining a great moral as well as a great political advantage. They are fairly entitled to the credit of having rescued the country from a great danger, and their success will have a decided influence on the subsequent elections of the present year. The Democratic defeat in Ohio carries, as its inevitable consequences, a Democratic defeat in Pennsylvania, and a diminution of the Democratic majority in New York by the new hope and courage that will be infused into the Republicans."

The Philadelphia North American clearly understands the real spirit of the affair. "The result of yesterday's voting in Ohio will be hailed with lively satisfaction by Republicans of course, and not only by Republicans, but by all men who are jealous of National honor. One obvious teaching of the result is that the mania for inflation has not affected the masses of men anywhere. This accords with the belief we have entertained from the first, and it pricks many a bubble which has so ostentatiously planted itself in prismatic colors on the surface of politics during the last year. The verdict of Ohio is for moving cautiously toward a specie basis, and against a repetition of war financial tactics in a time of profound peace."

For what Mrs. PARTINGTON would call "spicery," we offer an excerpt from the New York World. In the bitterness of its sorrow, it utters the truth in plain terms: "Nothing is clearer to the unbiased political observer than that the election of HAYES is not a Republican victory, nor a Democratic defeat. It is the defeat of an attempt to rally Democrats under Republican standards; it is the rejection of an incompetent leadership usurped by a small knot of corruptionists centring at the Enquirer office with whom politics is a trade and political principles a pretense. Their folly in shaping the issues of the present campaign has been supreme. But the blunderers who twice already wrecked the fair prospects of the Democracy devised another issue. It occurred to them to attribute hard times to a contraction of the currency which has never taken place, and to prescribe for its cure the renewal of that inflation of the currency the reaction from which had been the chiefest cause of hard times. The result is what might have been expected."

The wailing tones of the New York Tribune fit in so exactly with those of the World that put them in friendly companionship: "The wise Democratic politicians of Ohio have dug their own pit. They seem happy at it. They have done it repeatedly in the past fifteen years, and, so far as can be seen, are capable of learning nothing from experience. What with Vallandigham during the war, Pendleton in the period immediately following its close, and William Allen in the new political epoch just opening, they have shown a most remarkable ability to overturn and destroy. In this election they have forced a fight upon the currency question. From a partisan point of view, simply as a question of political expediency, it has been the saddest of blunders."

The New York Times catches the true drift of the issues decided. It says: "Undoubtedly the issue has been thoroughly tested in Ohio. The canvass has been a very long one, and the Democrats have made immense efforts to carry the day. Their speakers have been popular, and they have had the advantage on their side of a temporary decline in the popularity of the Republican party. Nothing has occurred during the past twelvemonth to strengthen or assist the Republicans. Fortune has not favored them. The accidents of the hour have been against them. Many things have happened which have given the enemies of the Administration opportunities of assailing it. People have been, and still are, poor, and many plausible arguments have been put before them to prove that the Democratic party alone could lighten their burdens. We have had nothing on our side in Ohio but truth, honor and justice, and it will be a great satisfaction if these forces have sufficed to win a victory. It is always a mistake to form a judgment of the American people from what some of their politicians presume to utter in their name."

The Cincinnati Gazette says, concerning the result:—"In language that will not be misunderstood, and under circumstances that were sufficient to cause serious apprehensions, Ohio has declared in favor of honest money and honest principles, and set an example for sister States that will not be disregarded. She has sounded the keynote of the campaign of 1876, and ordered to the rear the men who sought to prostitute the Democratic organization to purposes most base, and, reckless of the industrial interests of the people, endeavored upon the wave of depression to ride into power. The victory can justly be claimed by the Republican party because it adopted a platform worthy the support of honest men, and fought the battle upon distinctive principles; but we are not unmindful of the fact that this victory of honesty over dishonesty; of sound principles over pure demagoguery, is due largely to the votes of men who have not been identified strictly with the Republican organization. Thousands of Liberal and of Independent voters and of Democrats cast their votes with us, and are fairly entitled to a share of the glory which belongs to the victory that has been gained. The aim of Republican leaders should now be to deserve the continued co-operation of this large and influential class of honest and thinking men. Many Republicans, in various parts of the State, went after strange gods, but their places at the polls were filled by men who broke loose from party attachments, and overcame strong prejudices, in order that their proud State should not give forth an uncertain sound in these days of false doctrines, startling heresies, and idiotic or damning financial theories. The wisdom of this policy, and of the course of the Republican party, will now, in the revival of business, be splendidly demonstrated, and the future will only serve to impress upon the public mind the great importance of the victory that has been gained."

The Cincinnati Commercial (Ind.) says: "The downfall of the Inflationists in Ohio will have an immediate and far-reaching influence for good. It places both parties upon their good behavior for the Presidential contest of the Centennial year. The Republican party received their warning last fall. The Democrats have, in yesterday's experience, a greatly needed lesson, that may be of much service to them. The floating vote grows with the intelligence of the people, and the political organizations are admonished that neither can win with its worst elements in front. Since the triumph of the arms of the Republic, there has been no issue before the American people equal in importance with that which has been pending in the Ohio campaign, and no victory so momentous and beneficent as that of yesterday. The question of finance involved the public credit and the national honor. The dependence of the inflationists was upon ignorance, and their appeal was to passion. Ohio gives her voice for honest money, and the sacred preservation, as among our priceless possessions, of the pledged faith of the people. She gives her voice, too, that the workingman's dollar shall soon be a gold dollar. She is a representative State, and she will be heard and potential throughout the land."

The editorial in the Philadelphia Times fairly throbs with bitterness. At the last it shows a gleam of sense, and records in fitting terms the utter hopelessness of the Democratic cause in this State. It sadly says: "A Republican surge of victory breaks upon Pennsylvania within three weeks of one of the most important political verdicts her people have ever rendered. It matters not how or why the Republican tide has been created—whether by folly of the defeated or by strategy of those who have triumphed. It is a Republican wave that breaks upon the loose, undisciplined and uncommanded Democratic lines, that must drive them from their hopeful position for a time, if it does not break them in confusion. Pennsylvania has, born of her own political necessities, the most vital issues presented for her arbitrament, which were unfelt and comparatively unknown in Ohio. If to these the Democracy shall promptly rally its legions by bold aggressive warfare, such as the cause deserves and demands, the Ohio wave will spread harmlessly over the sands of our shores, and be impotent to influence the judgment of our great Commonwealth. No temporizing, half-way work will meet the emergency; no dress parade will win the battle that is now upon us."

At last comes the Press with the final exhortation. "Ohio has done well, but Pennsylvania can and will do better. Now for one hundred thousand majority in our own great Commonwealth. Let Pennsylvania gird her loins, bend all her energies, and swinging forward with a cheer, take her place on the right of the columns of the Union. Let her do this, and she leads in the Presidential campaign impending.

One of Jim Lane's Chaplains.

Thrilling Reminiscence of Quantralls' Raid in Kansas.

How a Pittsburgh Conference Minister was Saved by His Wife.

[From the Cincinnati Gazette.]

At the Methodist Preachers' Meeting, at the Methodist Book Concern, Cincinnati, Monday last, Rev. Dr. Fisher, of the Pittsburgh Conference, was introduced as "the man who was wonderfully saved during Quantrell's raid by the heroism of his wife." Methodist preachers always have time to relate or hear "an experience," and such an introduction, of course, set a dozen or more of them calling for the story, which the Doctor reluctantly consented to tell. By the way, he is in the city by invitation of the Ladies' Home Mission of the M. E. Church, and arrangements are on foot for securing his services as Superintendent of the work of the society.

One of Jim Lane's Chaplains.

After some preliminary remarks, Dr. Fisher began the story. Said he: "I was always an anti-slavery man of the most 'anti' kind, and after I moved to Kansas, without any prominence having been sworn to my sentiments by myself, I found myself the object of the most vindictive hatred of the pro slavery party of the region where I resided. My life was unsuccessfully sought several times. When the war broke out I went as a Chaplain. Most of the male members of my church went to the war, and I went as one of Jim Lane's Chaplains.

"The news of my connection with the army, and of my being put in charge of contrabands who were sent to Kansas, got abroad, and the rebels hated me worse than ever. They got my photograph and distributed it throughout the country, and it was fixed among them that I was to be shot whenever met. Once when I was sent up the river with a body of contrabands, not being well, I went home for a little rest. I was living at Lawrence. The town had a few guns in the armory, and there was an understanding with the farmers of the surrounding country that upon the ringing of an alarm, they should come in and defend the town, but the coming of Quantrell and his men was a complete surprise. When the alarm was rung the arsenal was already captured and on fire. I was in bed, and heard about 3 o'clock in the morning horses galloping very rapidly away, and woke my wife, telling her that it was singular that horses should be galloping so fast so early in the morning; but she said she guessed it was some farmers who had been in to a railroad meeting the evening before, and were hurrying back to their work. We lay and talked for some time. The children were going out that morning to get some grapes, and my wife thought she would call them earlier than usual, and herein, brethren, I see the hand of Providence. It was not yet daylight, but day was dawning. Having called the children, she went and looked out of the front door, and instantly called me: "Pa, the rebels are in town." I said it could not be; but, nevertheless, I sprang from my bed and ran to the door.

There They Were.

"There they were just across the green, and just then they shot the United Brethren preacher, as he was milking his cow in his barn yard. I rushed back into the house; my wife caught up her babe. I have four boys; one was on my wife's breast, another was by her side, and the two oldest were twelve and fourteen years old. We all rushed up the lot in which our house stood. Then I left my wife, and with the two oldest boys ran up the hill; but something seemed to tell me that I was running away from safety. So I told the boys to run on, and I would go back to mother. It was then in the gray light of morning, and the rebels had divided into little squads, and were ransacking the town, killing every man they found, and burning houses. My boys separated, the oldest getting with a neighbor's boy, Robert Winton, and while the two were running for life, the soldiers saw them and fired a volley, killing poor Bobby, and frightening my boy almost to death. He ran in and hid among some graves in the graveyard. My younger son ran off on the prairie.

In the Cellar.

"In fixing my cellar I had thrown up a bank of earth near the entrance, and I crept down there and laid myself between the mound of earth and the wall in such a way that the earth would partially screen me. I lay up close to the kitchen floor. I had not been there long before four of Quantrell's men rode up to the house and demanded admittance. 'My wife went to the front door and let them in. They demanded whether I was not in the house or in the cellar. She replied: 'My husband and two older boys ran off as soon as the firing began.' The leader swore that he knew I was in the cellar. My wife replied that she had two young children by her, and that she did not want any more oaths uttered before them. 'You have doubted my word,' she replied; 'you can look for yourselves.' I lay so near the floor that I could hear every word that was said. The men called for a candle.

We Don't Burn Candles.

"My wife replied that we don't burn candles. Then they wanted a lantern, but she said we hadn't any. They asked then, with an oath, what we did for a light. She replied that we burned kerosene in a lamp. Then they called for a lamp, and my wife had to get it, but the men, in their eagerness to light it, turned the wick down into the oil. Failing to light it themselves, they called on my wife to light it.

"'Why, you've ruined the lamp,' said she, 'it can't be lighted with the wick down in the oil.'

"'Haven't you another lamp?' said they.

"'Yes, there's one up stairs,' said she, and they then ordered her to go and get it.

"'Gentlemen,' said she, 'I can't do it. Your rudeness has so frightened me that I can scarcely hold my babe.'

"One of the men then offered to hold it for her, and took it from her arms. My poor wife then went and got the lamp, which they lighted and started on their search. They all cocked their revolvers and passed the word to kill at sight, and started for the cellar. I laid myself just as flat as I could be, and turned my face toward the wall, for I knew my face was thinnest from ear to ear. The light came to the door.

Quit Living.

"I tell you brethren, I just quit living You have heard it said when a man is drowning all his past life comes up before him."

The speaker's voice trembled, his eyes became suffused, and his whole frame shook with suppressed emotion as he continued: "I stood then before the judgment seat. I was a dead man. My heart ceased to beat. I had already stood before my judge. Brethren, what could I do, but just trust myself to the Lord?

"The man who carried the light was tall, and providentially stooped so low in entering the cellar that the light shining against the bank of earth threw a shadow over me. They searched the cellar, but did not find me, and went back up stairs. My wife afterward told me that when the men went down to the cellar, she took her babe and went into the parlor, and stood there holding her hand against one ear, and her babe against the other, expecting every moment to hear the report of the revolvers in the cellar announcing the death of her husband.

"The soldiers set fire to the house in several places, and leaving one of their number to prevent my wife from putting it out, departed. The man seemed to be touched with pity, and told her that if she wanted to save some furniture he would help her. My wife thinks that holding the babe in his arms had touched his heart. She plead with him if he had any consideration for her or her helpless children to leave the house and let her put out the fire. He consented, and left.

"My wife then came to me and asked me whether it was all right between me and God. 'I am afraid they will come back and kill you yet, and it will be the greatest comfort to know that you felt prepared to die.'

"I told her I felt that I was prepared to die.

Pray.

"Telling me to pray, she left me. It was not long before another party of Quantrell's men came, and in drunken tones—for the marauders had become intoxicated by this time—demanded whether I was in the house.

"'Do you suppose,' said my wife confidently, 'that he would stay here and you shooting and burning all over the town? No; he left this morning as soon as the firing commenced, and unless some of you have shot him and killed him outside, he is safe. Some of your men were here this morning and searched the house. However, you may look for yourselves.'

"In this way she bluffed them. They set fire to the house, and left one, who drew his revolver on my wife, and said he would kill her if she tried to put it out. He stayed till the house was so far consumed that there was no possibility of saving it. My wife pulled up a carpet, and in taking it to the yard, dropped it accidentally by the door.

"My wife was afraid, and so was I, that I would be burned up alive; for I had now no thought of doing anything but what my wife told me. The floor was on fire almost over me, and the flames were creeping nearer. My wife stood and threw water, pail after pail, on the floor, and was doing this when a neighbor, a Catholic woman, came and said: 'Why, Mrs. Fisher, what are you doing? What good will it be to save that floor? Besides, you can't save it.'

"'I don't care what good it will do,' replied my wife, I am going to keep on wetting that floor.'

"But finally, when she saw she could not save it, she asked the neighbor whether she could keep a secret. She then swore her by the Virgin Mary never to reveal it.

My Husband is Under That Floor.

"'Well, then, said my wife, my husband is under that floor.'

The soldiers were still everywhere, shooting and burning, and the air was filled with the shrieks of wounded and dying men, the wailings of widows and orphans, and the sound of falling buildings. My wife then called me to come out, and threw a dress over my shoulder. The two women picked up the carpet, and I crawled under it between them, and so we three proceeded to a small brush about four feet high out in the yard.

"There my wife saw four soldiers ready to fire. They were not a hundred yards off. Then, for the first time, the poor woman despaired. A pang then shot to her heart, and she gave up all for lost. Nevertheless, I slunk under the bush and they threw the carpet over me.

"Save the chairs!" cried my wife; and they rushed to where the chairs were piled, close to the burning building, and ran with them and flung them carelessly upon me, piled up all that was saved of our household goods about me. The soldiers evidently thought the pile only a lot of household furniture, and left it unmolested.

"I staid there till two hours after they left, and then gathered my wife and my four children—for the two boys had come back—and in the garden we knelt and thanked God for deliverance. Brethren, you don't know what it is to be thankful."

NASBY'S NEW PROPOSITION.

The Inflator Wants to Redeem His Currency in Bonds.

The Attempt at Negotiation Results Unsuccessfully, and the Great Financier is Again Compelled to "Git Up and Git."

IN A SWAMP, NEAR CONFEDRIT X ROADS, WICH IS IN THE STATE UV KENTUCKY, September 30, 1875.—I felt that ef I hed to stay another week in this infernal cabin I shood die. With nothing but hoe cake to eat—with infrekent and onreliable drinks, with no society watever, life didn't seem to be wuth hevin. Therefore I sent a note to the citizens uv the Corners askin for a promis uv safety, that I mite make em a proposishen, wich, ef they would accept, wood enable the Bank to go on and become ez permanent ez time herself.

The Corners met and decided to receive me, and appointed a committee to heer my proposishen, and on receeving their answer I made my way thither.

The meetin wuz held in the church. It wuz an impressive scene. On the platform in front uv the pulpit sot the committee—the auditorium in front wuz crowded with citizens, the most uv whom hed baskets uv my currency, and thar wuz an expectant murmur ez I entered. I wuz delighted to see that there wuz a winder just back uv where I wuz to stand, and also that it wuz open; that it wuz only 3 feet to the ground, and that the woods wuz only about 80 rods to the rear. Old ez I am, I kin make fairly good time for 80 rods.

I wuz respectfully invited to make my statement.

Ez I rose a most anxshus silence pervaded that assemblage. You cood hev heerd a pin drop ef anybody hed dropt one.

Wipin my streamin brow I remarked that I hed never intended that the Corners shood loose a cent by our bank, nor did I now so intend. I confest that lookin simply to the idee uv inflashun, follering the idees of the Dimocracy uv Ohio and Pennsylvany, I hed not given sich careful attenshun ez I shood hev done to the matter uv redempshun.

At this pint the awjence seemed to be visibly pleased.

I hed hed a week uv solitood, and I hed employed that time a wrestlin with the question uv finance, and I wuz happy to say that I hed finally mastered it. I hed matoored a skeem for redempshun which I wuz willin to present.

"Go on! go on!" the people shreeked delitedly.

"I propose to redeem the ishoos uv of Onlimited Trust and Confidence in the bonds uv the Company."

Their faces resoomed a expresshun uv stolidity which I did not like.

"Will them bonds bear interest?" they all askt in korus.

"Certainly they will. We shel be generous. You may fix the rate of interest at wat you chose."

"That seems fair," they exclaimed.

I congratulated myself on hevin got through tollable easy, and was steppin off the platform to go over to Simpson's to hev the bonds printed, when that feend, Joe Bigler, who wuz sittin with Pollock, rose and remarkt that he, ez a bill-holder, hed a question to ask.

"Go on," sez I.

"Yoo'l give interest-bearing bonds for your notes, will you?"

"Certainly, Josef," sed I, "uv course we will."

"Wat do you perpose to redeem the bonds in?"

"Why, our notes, uv course. What else hev we to redeem em in? Our notes, with the privilege uv convertin uv em into bonds at any time,—and faith,—is the best money in the world."

"Then wat'll you redeem the notes in?" persisted Josef with feendish pertenassity.

"Why, the bonds, uv course," was my response. "Wat kin any wun want better than intrest-bearin bonds, and wat currency kin be better than that wich yoo kin convert at pleasure into sich bonds? My friends, whenever yoo want bonds for yoor currency, don't hesitate to come for 'em—don't be afraid uv givin the officers trouble. It is our pleasure to serve the public, and we'll go to any lengths—

"But wat did I un'stand yoo'r goin to redeem them bonds in?" asked Josef agin.

"Our notes!" I answered, out of pashense with him.

"And yoo redeem the notes with yoor bonds?"

"Certinly; jist ez our friends uv Ohio perpose to pay the nashnel debt."

"And this goes on for time and eternity?"

"Certinly, Josef. A finanshel institooshen, constructed ez ours is, kin go on from time to eternity, becoz it is convertible—one species uv paper into another, and another into one. You see—

"Yes, I see; but, citizen Bascom, when yoo hev sold all yeur likker agin for this paper, and you turn around and convert it into bonds, hev yoo any ashoorance that they'll take them bonds in Loolsville for more likker? Did they take the notes afore? How much better does the bonds make 'em? "Fellow-citizens uv the Corners—(Josef spoke impressively)—Fellow-citizens uv the Corners, inoggerate this system agin if yoo choose, but I feel it my dooty to warn yoo that in a week there won't be a drop uv likker in the Corners, and wat's more you won't be able to get a drop. Yoo are standin on the brink uv a pressipis. Haul off before it is everlastinly too late."

The people seed it to wunst, and with a glare like so many infooriated tigers they riz and went for me. I didn't keer to stay to argoo finance with them. The winder wuz open, and I sprang thro it, and made for the woods, wich I reeched just in time. Hed they caught me they wood hev hung me out uv hand.

I am now in the cabin, in wich I hev spent the last week sick and sore. Does financeering mean perpetooal skeeting for the woods? Am I to be alluz escapin with my life? Oh for a quiet, sekoor post offis!

PETROLEUM V. NASBY,
President of the late Onlimited Trust and Confidence Company.

P. S.—The nigger who owns my hidin plase has discovered who I am. He went to the Corners to get pervishens with the money I give him, and then the cat wuz out uv the bag. He sed had he knowd who I wuz and wat I wuz a hidin for, he never wood hev took me in. He thot I wuz merely a hunted and distrest hoss thief. Es I hed nothin to pay him in, he came in while I wuz asleep and took my coat and boots, wich he sez I kin hev when I give him good money for that wich I paid him in. He bleeves I hev some good money about me somewhere. How I am to git away from here the Lord only knows.

DR. WHITTIER,
NO. 302 PENN STREET,
PITTSBURGH, PA.
Continues to afford reliable special treatment in all Private, Nervous and Urinary Diseases. Spermatorrhoea or Seminal Weakness, resulting from self-abuse or sexual excess, producing nervous debility, night emissions, despondency, dizziness, dimness of sight, pimples on the face, weakness of mind and body, and finally impotency, loss of sexual power, sterility, &c., unfitting the victim for marriage or business, and rendering life miserable, are permanently cured in shortest possible time. Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, all urinary diseases and Syphilis (all forms), consisting of skin eruptions, ulcers, &c., are perfectly cured, and the blood poison thoroughly eradicated from the system. Cures guaranteed.

DR. WHITTIER is a regular graduate of medicine, as his diploma at office shows; his life-long special experience in all private diseases, with pure medicines prepared by himself, enables him to cure difficult cases after others fail—it is self-evident that a physician treating thousands of cases every year acquires great skill. Consultation and correspondence private and free. Pamphlet sent sealed for stamp. Medicines sent everywhere, by mail or express.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, October 14, 1875.

A more active day was observable at the banks yesterday, and a better feeling evidently obtained. There are larger demands for loans, and these are being granted at the banks where it is at all proper. The result of the Ohio election, however, was what gave a cheerful tone to affairs, it being regarded as a financial favor to the country. It settles all the hair-brained schemes of the Democratic party, and shows that the excellent financial system we have is to be supported by the American people. This of itself served to brighten business prospects, and to give a better tone to financial affairs. It is freely stated, indeed, that the result will be to promote business activity and prosperity.

There are some very intelligent and very correct people who think if we have a paper currency it should be wholly of greenbacks—that they are much better and safer than bank notes. On this point Galusha A. Grow explains that "the currency we use represents a promise in the shape of a National bank note, a promise resting upon the assets of the bank and upon the United States bonds deposited to secure its redemption," and he might have added on the personal liability of the shareholders of each bank. "How with a Government Treasury note? It represents no property. It is a lien upon nothing. It is not a mortgage upon anything, for you cannot sell any man's farm, carriage or horses on a failure to pay a treasury note of the United States. It rests only upon good faith by the people, and that is just what is on trial to-day," so far as currency enters into the issue.

Cable advices from London report the failure of J. S. Galatti, a Greek merchant, with liabilities of about $750,000, and also gives rumor of probable early failures on the Stock Exchange, in consequence of the refusal of the bank to lend money on Turkish and Egyptian securities; but these reports do not seem to have had any appreciable effect upon the London markets, which are reported steady for consols and U. S. bonds.

The Constitutional Convention of North Carolina came within two votes—47 to 49—of repudiating the tax bonds of that State. That the amount obtained by means of the bonds was largely misappropriated is no reason why the innocent buyer should lose his money.

In 1849 there were in the United States 696 banks which issued bills. Of these the notes of barely 52 circulated at par. Those of the other 645 were circulated at various rates of discount, from ½ to 30 per cent.

Lehigh Valley (S)	61⅜

NEW YORK, October 13, 1875.

The money market was easy at 2@3½; prime mercantile paper 5½@7. The customs receipts were $256,000. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $69,000. The clearings were $39,000,000. Bankers' bills 478½@482½. Gold, after declining from 115⅞ to 115⅝, rose to 116⅛, closing at that price. The rates paid for borrowing were 3-32, 5-64, 1-16, 1-32 and 3-64 per diem. Government bonds were strong and higher, owing to an advance in gold. The offerings were limited. Railroad bonds were firm in late afternoon dealings. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy 7s advanced to 106½, Union Pacific firsts to 102¾, and land grants to 98½.

Stocks opened quiet, and then declined ¼ to 1½ per cent. on the general list. Northwestern fell off from 35½ to 34¾, preferred from 49 to 48½, Western Union from 75 to 74½, Lake Shore from 53¾ to 52¾, St. Paul from 32½ to 31½, Pacific Mail from 36¼ to 35¾, and Union Pacific from 67 to 66½. Missouri Pacific opened at 14½ and sold up to 15½. There was a firm undertone to speculation on railway and miscellaneous shares late in the day, and prices generally advanced under purchases to cover short contracts and for long account. The principal activity was in Western Union, Pacific Mail, Northwestern, St. Paul, Lake Shore and Union Pacific, the latter opening and closing at 67. The market in the last hour was strong, prices in most cases having been the highest of the day. Just before the close there was a fractional decline.

The transactions on the Stock Exchange aggregated 170,000 shares, of which 17,000 were Pacific Mail, 55,000 Western Union, 63,000 Northwest common, 2,000 preferred, 4,000 St. Paul common, 31,000 Lake Shore, 3,000 Ohios, 5,000 Union Pacific, and 9,000 Missouri Pacific.

The Change in Freights—How it is Viewed in Chicago

The reading of the new freight tariff by rail to the east sounds strangely—grain 30c per 100 lbs., bulk meats 45c, and boxed meats, flour and other fourth-class, 40c per 100 lbs. The grain rate is probably kept down because of the competion of lake carriers, but the discrimination is justly felt to be an odious one, by several classes of people here. The new rule is a direct blow at Western millers, who cannot now afford to bid so much for flour as can their Eastern brethren, because the new tariff discriminates to the extent of 20c per barrel against the grinding of the wheat in the West. The Chicago flour dealer is equally "struck" by the change, which is really a protective tariff of 20 cents per barrel on the work of Eastern millers.—Tribune.

Louisiana Rice.

[New Orleans Price Current.]

A second crop of rice appears to be among the probabilities of this State. We have seen several stalks of rice taken from a field which had been cut in August last, which were the product of the old stubble; the second growth was caused by the flooding of the field by excessive rains, and the new growth has attained a heigth of nearly four feet, and is rapidly heading. When the season is early and propitious, the planter may thus, after cutting, again flood his fields and probably raise about half of a second crop.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

DAILY REPORT OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, October 13, 1875.

Now that the most of the fall elections are over, it is probable the agitation of the currency question will cease, and if so, general business it is hoped will improve; the is no doubt, but the constant agitation of the financial policy has had much to do with the present unsettled and unsatisfactory condition of trade generally.

APPLES—Sales in a regular jobbing way at $3a4 per bbl for fair to choice.

BUTTER—The market is still reported rather slow, especially for the common and medium grades, but prices remain as last quoted; prime to choice solid packed, 23a25; ditto roll, 27a30.

CRAMBERIES—Sales at $10a11 per bbl.

CHESTNUTS—$6,50a7 per bu.

CHEESE—Prime Ohio Factory, 13a13 1-2; New York Goshen, 13 1-2a14c.

EGGS—Firm and higher; sales reported to-day 24a25c.

FLOUR—Is quiet and unchanged. Old winter, wheat, $7a7,25; new ditto, $6,50a7; old Spring wheat, $7a7,25; new ditto, $6,50a7. Rye Flour, $5,50$5,75.

GROCERIES—The Coffee market continues quiet, and while there has been, so far as we can learn, no actual decline, as yet, the indications at the present writing point in that direction. The latest advices from Rio are unfavorable to the selling interest. A Rio dispatch under date of the 9th inst., reports receipts for the week ending at that time 75,000 bags; purchases for United States, 40,000 bags; stock 150,000 bags; price unchanged, 9-800; exchange, 27¾. Sugars continue easy, our latest report from the east quote another decline of an eighth of a cent on refined goods.

GRAIN—The market for Wheat continues a little slow, and except for prime prices are offish; the mills generally do not appear inclined to buy any other than good stock; new red is ranging all the way from $1,25a1,35 for red, and $1,35a1,45 for new white; there is a great difference in quality and condition, especially the latter—a good deal of that offering is sprouty and unsuitable for grinding. The Oat market continues quiet and unchanged; mixed Penna. and Ohio, 42a43; do white, 44a45c. Corn has undergone but little change for several days past, although the general tone of the market is weak; new Ear quoted at 48a50 on track; old ear 70a71; old shelled, 68a70c on track. Rye is quiet and nominal at 85a90. It is difficult to quote Barley.

HAY—Baled continues very dull, with the market considerably overstocked, but prices remain about as last quoted; prairie, $14a15; timothy, $18a20.

PROVISIONS—Our market, under the influence of the advices from Chicago and Cincinnati, continues fairly active and firm, although prices have undergone no change for some days past.

PITTSBURGH LIVE STOCK MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, October 13, 1875.

ARRIVALS.

Following were the arrivals of live stock at the Pittsburgh Central Stock Yarks for the week at noon to-day, and to afford a comparison, we append those of the four day ending same time last week also:

	This week.	Last week.

Briggs, Dock & Drum, Wholesale Dealers and Commission Merchants for the sale of Live Stock at the East Liberty Stock Yards, report concerning the market, as follows:

CATTLE.

With light receipts a limited supply and an average demand, there has been quite a reaction in the market as compared with last week; trade has been more active, and prices are fully 25 cts. better on medium and best butcher cattle, the supply of which was unequal to the demand; common butcher cattle and stockers, although firmer were not quotably higher, altough it should be born in mind that stockers did not depreciate much during the time in question dropped fully 50 cts per cwt. Our dispatches this week from nearly all the leading markets in the country, report prices better especially for good fat cattle, and this was not without its effect here, and then the large falling off in the receipts, and decreased supply tended very materially to stimulate our market.

As will be seen the receipts for the week ending at noon to-day were only 262 cars, against 461 cars last week, a falling off of 198 cars; of the 263 cars reported, 106 cars were through consignments, and 157 cars of local or Yard Cattle; whereas last week there were 202 cars of through, and 259 cars of local. The large falling off in the receipts may be attributed to the fact that many of the western shippers remained at home this week, in order to vote, and then the fact that the market during the past two weeks was exceedingly unsatisfactory, losing owners generally more or less money also had its effect in cutting down the arrivals. It is feard that there will be an oversupply next week, as one extreme generally follows another, and if so, the market will take a turn back again.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The supply on Monday was fair, about what it usually is on the day in question, but there was little or nothing done—very few buyers having put in an appearance. On Tuesday, however, the receipts in the meantime having been light, and the eastern advices more favorable, trade livened up considerably, and prices on medium to best grades were advanced fully 25c per cwt.; common stock did not improve any, as the supply of this character, as has been the case for some time past, was in excess of the demand. Ewes are hard to sell at any price, but we can sell good strong wethers to feeders at very fair prices. Our market has been overstocked with common fine wool sheep for some time past, and as there are but very few buyers and then only at ruinously low prices, we would advise our friends to hold them back for the present at least. To-day, the receipts continuing light, the market was steady at the advance above noted, and as we close our report there are but few remaining in the pens unsold.

HOGS.

From Thursday of last week up until Saturday there was no quotable change, but on Monday, the receipts in the meantime having been light, the market stiffened up considerably, and an advance was established; early in the day sales of Philadelphia hogs were made at 8⅞c, and towards evening one prime bunch brought 9 cents. Yorkers brought an advance of about 10c. On Tuesday the market was much the same as on Monday, and to-day did not differ much from Tuesday; the general tone of the market as we close our report is firmer; one lot of fancy Philadelphia hogs brought 9,15 cents.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, October 13, 1875.

Crude was weaker and lower in the morning, but stiffened up again in the afternoon, when it was held at $1,65 for immediate shipment. Conduit certificates quoted at 1,45. Refined dull and lower; Philadelphia quoted nominally at 13⅝a13¼, and Baltimore at 13 1-4c, with refusals solicited at the last named figure. Some of the New York brokers and exporters are still reported bearing, and it is also said that Cleveland is on the other side. The general belief appears to be that the market will not only holds its own, but that higher rates will prevail, that the general position is favorable to the seller.

Oil Barrels quoted at $1,40a1,50 for countries, and $1,55a1,60 for city make.

L. A. WELSH,
Sergeant Signal Service, U. S. A.

THE stage of water last evening was 6 feet 10 inches, and falling slowly. Weather clear and cool, and the wharf presented a more cheerful appearance, as there was some business transacted in the way of shipping and receiving.

COM. KOUNTZ was in St. Louis at last accounts.

THERE was not sufficient water to let the coal fleet out yesterday.

THE Allegheny was falling at head waters, and the Monongahela stationary.

THE Charles Morgan will come out next week if the prospects for water hold good.

THE Hope passed Wheeling on Tuesday, en route for this port, with a tow of ties and staves.

IT is probable that the Ashland will come here from Middleport, and will load for New Orleans.

THE little Jack Gumbert is making regular trips from the Monongahela wharf to the Exposition.

THE new steamer Fauchon leaves Cincinnati for this port to-day, and will load here for a return trip to that point.

THE Mallie Ragon, from Wheeling, arrived and departed. She was considerably behind time, having been delayed by fog.

A NUMBER of towboats had their flags at half-mast, yesterday, in respect to the memory of W. H. Brown, the well-known coal king.

LAST Friday the Ella was again sold by the United States Marshall at Jacksonport, Ark., for $4,500. She was purchased by the Elliott brothers.

A CAIRO dispatch says: John Hutchinson, who killed Jacob Sulter here a few months ago, was arrested on the steamer James Howard.

IT is said that Captain John L. Rhoads will command the Exchange hereafter himself. It is a good while since Capt. R. stood watch on a steamboat.

A ST. LOUIS paper of Monday says:—Captains Dick Gray, Hiram Hazlett, General J. M. Schoonmaker, and Mr. Alex. Reed left for Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon.

CAPTAINS Francis and Theodore have succeeded in raising the boilers, engines, doctor engine, and wheel of the sunken Frank Morgan, and they were to be sold at New Orleans last Saturday.

THE little steamer, Whitesides, has been purchased by Capt. Ben. Fichener, who will have her taken to St. Louis from Venice, where she is now lying, and repair and refit her for the Lower Bayou trade.

THE Ashland, Exchange and John L. Rhoads may be looked for from below within the next week. Captain Vandergrift and part of the crew of the Rhoads left for Cincinnati last night to bring her up.

THE Rover, of Gray's Iron Line, is, as will be seen, announced to take her departure for St. Louis on Friday. Supt. Dunlap says she will load to the water, and that there is no doubt about her getting out.

THE Louisville Courier of Tuesday, says: Capt. Scott McCarthy floated a coaldock from Pittsburgh to this city with oars. Capt. Mac got "hungry" at Carrollton, came down here, got his "grub," went back and finished his trip.

JOHN GERKE, Treasurer of Hamilton Co., Ohio, has sold his pleasure steamer Star of the West, to A. T. Shehan, of Belpre, Washington Co., O., for $3,000. She will be lengthened and placed in the Little Kanawha River. Capt. Theo. Davis will command her.

A LETTER from Topeka, Kansas, dated the 7th inst., brings inteligence that Capt. John Sebastian, formerly Treasurer of Cincinnati, and for many years before a steamboat man, is dangerously ill from softening of the brain, physicians there having given up all hope. He had been sick three weeks.

THE St. Louis Republican, of Sunday, says: In the McMillan case for infringement of patent capstan, decided by Judge Treat the other day, the Court has permitted the defendants to continue using their capstans upon giving bond for the royalty and taking an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. The appeal has already been taken, and the bond given, so no royalty can be collected in this circuit until the Supreme Court says McMillin is entitled to his patent.

THE Vicksburg and New Orleans packet boats decline to carry cotton brought from the main river above that port by other boats, for less than $1 per bale, that being their regular local rates, that is, they refuse to be a connecting link and devide freights with other short line packets going no lower than Vicksburg. The reason of it is that their line has two or three boats running up to Greenville, or the Miliiken's bend country, and they wish these boats to have all this business.

AN October 12th dispatch from St. Louis says:—W. Mead, of the Southern Pacific Railroad, has sued Commodore W. J. Kountz, in the Circuit Court here, for $100,000 damages for alleged libel. The article which is claimed to have been libelous, was published in the St. Louis Times of July 20, 1875, but Commodore Kountz disclaims all knowledge of the authorship of it.... The dyke built by the Government officials at Horse-tail is proving a very serious obstruction to navigation, and General Simpson has been requested by several of our prominent steamboat owners to look after it at once. There is but 6 feet of water, while everywhere else between St. Louis and Cairo there is 8.

A ST. LOUIS dispatch, under date of Monday, says: The Mary Bell is advertised to leave here for New Orleans next Saturday. She is nearly completed. The late arrivals up report 6 feet of water out to Cairo. The John F. Tolle and Bee and barges are receiving to clear for New Orleans on Wednesday. There was a meeting of the Superintendents of the New Orleans packet companies this morning at the Mississippi Valley Transportation Company's wharf boat. The object of their deliberations could not be correctly ascertained, as they met with closed doors. Captain W. F. Davidson addressed the meeting at some length, urging the importance of consolidation and sending out a regular number of boats for New Orleans weekly. It is presumed that a uniform freight tariff will be adopted.

HOME NEWS.

Another Asteroid Discovered.

Professor Langley has received through the Western Union Telegraph Co., at the Allegheny Observatory a dispatch from Professor Henry, of Washington, announcing the receipt by cable of news of the discovery by Perrotin of another Asteroid of the 12th magnitude in twentythree hours four minutes right ascension, six degrees and thirty-six minutes south declination.

"Badgered."

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

I would like to have you inform me when Iowa became the "Badger" State. Some how from my earliest infancy I supposed that Wisconsin was the "Badger" and Iowa the "Hawkeye." I would not take the pains to correct you, but I am one of the disconsolate this morning, and so small a dig as this at you has a tendency to ease my mind's wrath. Yours, MIO.

Some Potatoes.

UTICA, VENANGO CO., PA., Oct. 11, 1875.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

You report in No. 37, the raising of two hundred and sixty-four pounds and ten ounces of Early Vermont and Snowflake potatoes from eighteen pounds of seed.

I am next. From twelve pounds of seed I raised five hundred and thirty-six pounds of Tidal Wave potatoes.

This is a new variety, propagated from the Early Rose and Peachblow, and is not excelled by the Peachblow in quality.

Respectfully
A. W. GILMORE.

Republicans.

The Republicans of the First ward, Pittsburgh, will meet this (Thursday) evening, at 7½ o'clock, in the school house, to arrange for the campaign.

By order of the Committee.
W. B. HUNTER.

The Thirty-second "Ward Pioneers," the advance guard of the Central Hartranft club, last night elected L. S. Ambler Lieutenant. Capt. McCain will turn out to-morrow evening three columns of men, with the customary battle axes, &c. This club for marching and appearance, is probably one of the best in the city.

MRS. KEARNEY'S DEATH.

The End of a Sad Story.

Yesterday saw the termination of a tale of distress that has attracted considerable sympathy in the community for the unfortunate heroine of it. Mrs. Kearney, whose goods were levied upon just as she was ready to start for Europe with her children to rejoin her husband, and who, in consequence of the worry attending her troubles, was taken ill, and prematurely gave birth to a child, (still-born), died yesterday. She left four children who were thrown upon the world with no one to look after them, as their father is in England and knows nothing of their situation. The eldest child is ten years old and the youngest two. Squire Krehan kindly took charge of them temporarily, but if there are any families which desire to adopt them, they can see them by calling upon Mrs. Krehan. The children are represented to be unusually bright and healthy.

DROWNED.

Upsetting of a Skiff at the Point, and Drowning of One of the Occupants.

About half-past three o'clock yesterday afternoon, three young men started to cros the Allegheny river, just above the Point, in a skiff. When but a short distance out, the waves of a passing steamboat struck them, driving them against the barges moored along the bank, upsetting the frail craft in which they were, and throwing all of them into the river. Two of them succeeded in getting out of the water with no more damage resulting than a severe wetting and consequent chill; but the third, a young man named John Welsh, sank immediately and did not rise. It is presumable that he was carried under the barges, as, although search was instituted shortly after the occurrence, his body has not yet been found. He resides at Point Alley, just below Penn street, and was about twenty years of age.

ONE OF THEM.

The Freaks of One of Those Characters Called Suspicious.

An individual was before Deputy Mayor Lowry yesterday whose eccentricities were of that character calculated to make his doings a matter of police surveillance. He had been noticed lurking around the East End for several days, one day appearing in the habiliments of a beggar and soliciting alms from house to house, and the next sporting clothes of the best material and latest cut. This incongruity of appearance led the patrolmen to keep an eye on him, and on Wednesday evening they took him in charge. He gave his name when arrested, as Church, but when called up for a hearing yesterday morning he had forgotten that name, and gave the cognomen of Keegan. He was sentenced to the Work House as a suspicious character. From certain circumstances connected with the attempted burglary of Mr. McDade's house a few nights since, it thought that Church, alias Keegan, was connected with it, as with several other affairs of the same nature, He had in his possession when arrested a lot of fine underclothing and socks—all stencil marked "Powers." They are at the Mayor's office awaiting identification.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL.

Reviving Ceremonies of Auld Lang Syne.

To-day the semi-Centennial of the Allegheny Theological Seminary will take place in the First United Presbyterian Church Allegheny, Rev. Dr. Robinson's The programme embraces three services. The exercises in the morning will commence at half past ten o'clock with Rev. Dr. J. T. Clure, D. D., as Chairman. Addresses on special topics will be delivered by Rev. Dr. J. B. Dales, of Philadelphia, and Rev. Dr. John G. Brown of Pittsburgh. The afternoon services will commence at two o'clock. Rev. Dr. D. W. Collins, presiding. Addresses on special topics assigned will be delivered by Rev. Dr. David Paul, Rev. Dr. A. A. Hodge, Rev. Dr. J. R. W. Sloane, Rev. W. G. Moorehead, Rev. Dr. W. J. Reid, Rev. Dr. J. N. Dick, Rev. Dr. B. Waddle, Rev. Dr. W. A. Mehard and Rev. Dr. Alexander Young. In the evening the services will commence at half past seven o'clock, Rev. H. H. Hervey presiding. Rev. Dr. E. T. Jeffers, of Wilmington College, will deliver a special address after which there will be supper, informal speeches, and a social time generally. The occasion promises to be one of great interest and success.

RETRIBUTION.

A Dastardly Crime and Attempted Suicide.

An attempted suicide took place at Alpsville, on the Connellsville railroad, on Tuesday, the facts in regard to which are as follows: On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Margaret Fricht, of Alpsville, applied to Squire Love, of Coultersville, for a warrant for the arrest of a man named Sebastian Debnot, charging him with committing an assault upon a daughter of hers, 13 years old. Constable Boone was given the warrant, and learning that Debnot was at work in a vineyard near Alpsville, left for the place. He did not find him, and started on his return, and when between Coultersville and Alpsville, he met Debnot on a hill. As soon as Debnot saw the officer, he started to run, but the latter drew a revolver and commanded him to stop. Finding it impossible to escape, Debnot drew a large pruning knife from his pocket, and plunged it into his breast three times, and then fell to the earth. He was picked up, carried to a house near by and Dr. J. P. Jenny summoned to attend him. The physician examined the wounds and pronounced them fatal. Debnot was not dead yesterday, but his recovery was considered impossible.

THE FIRE COMMISSION.

Meeting Last Night—The Business Before It.

The Fire Commission last evening held a regular monthly meeting. Messrs. Pender, Torley, Hays, McElroy, Pitcairn, Jones, Larimer and Wilson were present.

The Chief Engineer reported that during the last month there were sixteen fires and alarms with a loss of $9,785.80. The largest fire was the one at the Novelty Works of Moorhead & Co., September 16, with a loss of $8,000. A number of articles unfit for service at the store house was also reported. Received and filed.

Secretary Case submitted the following report for September:

Expenditures for the month	$ 13,372 63
Previously expended since Jan. 1	88,443 26
Total	$101,815 89

A special committee appointed to consider the matter, reported in favor of standing committees instead of the monthly committees now in vogue. It recommended Committees on Horses, Supplies and Apparatus, to consist of three members each, to be appointed annually. The Committee on Horses to have charge of the horses of the department, keep a correct list and description of all, from whom purchased and at what price. The Committee on Supplies to have under their control the furnishing of houses and all articles needed by the department, except feed. The Committee on Apparatus to have charge of the engines, hose, hose carriages, trucks and other vehicles, and all to report monthly to the Commission in writing. The report was received and the recommendations adopted, but the appointment of the committees was postponed until a later date.

The Superintendent of the Fire Alarm Telegraph reported repairs being made on the lines at various points.

A communication from the City Clerk was read, enclosing an ordinance referred to the Commission by Select Council for an additional engine to be located in the Eighteenth Ward. Referred to a special committee, consisting of Messrs. Pitcairn and Jones.

After the transaction of some unimportant business the Commission adjourned.

THE EXPOSITION.

Fourth Day of the Exhibition.

The Increase in Attendance—The Heating Arrangement—The First Award of Premiums—General Notes.

Yesterday was the fourth day of the Exhibition, and the attendance showed an encouraging increase over that of the previous day. Especially was this observable in the number of ladies who were present in the afternoon. The people now begin to come in lively, as they have given the managers and exhibitors time to get everything in readiness for a good display.

LIFTED.

A number of complimentary tickets were confiscated during the day, having been found in the possession of other parties than whom they were issed to. A very close watch is kept upon the tickets.

EXCURSION.

An excursion train of sixteen cars will arrive in Allegheny to-day from Ashtabula, Ohio, with visitors to the Exposition. Arrangements are being made to run a number of such trains on the different railroads centering in the city. To-day's train will arrive at about 10 o'clock this morning, and will leave about 5 o'clock in the evening.

POWER HALL.

One of the engines was started up at noon, and considerable of the machinery was put in motion. The engine runs very smoothly, and the other one will be ready for work to-day. There will be a most decided improvement in the machinery department when the power is secured.

THE BALLOON.

Captive ascensions were the order of the day yesterday. These ascensions are made to the height of one thousand feet, from the southwest corner of the Exposition building. A quarter of an inch rope, attached to a windlass, will hold the airy monster down to the distance indicated, and will be used in drawing it and the passengers back to earth again after the ærial voyagers have enjoyed the landscape from an elevated standpoint for five or six minutes. The charge for a single passenger is two dollars, and two passengers will be "elevated" at each trip.

EYELESS FISH.

In a little aquarium, on a table among Bochmann & Patterson's floral attractions, an eyeless fish, from the Mammoth Cave, Kentucky, is exhibited. It was brought from the cave about six weeks ago by Hon. W. H. Graham, of Allegheny. It is an an economical institution, as it requires nothing but a full supply of fresh water. It attracts great attention.

ART.

Two curious additions are noticed in the Art Gallery. One is a picture of "The Flight Into Egypt," which is made of worsted work, and was accomplished by the patience and skill of a little Allegheny girl named Annie Wang, who is only twelve years of age. It is very neatly done, and is something that the maker may well be proud of. The other curiosity is four wood engravings representing the four principal events in the history of the life of Christ. They are the "Annunciation to the Blessed Virgin Mary," "Birth of Christ," "Baptism of Christ," and the "Crucifixion of Christ." These are ancient oak cuts, estimated to be seven hundred years or more old, and were taken from the Old Priory church in Hampshire, England, which was built some time during the twelfth century.

BEER RETIRES.

The liquor trouble has ended by the retiracy of all the venders. One saloonist surreptitiously kept his place until yesterday morning, but when the eagle glance of a manager rested on him, he succumbed and disappeared.

HEAT.

The heating machinery is all in place. It consists first of a big "blower," making eight hundred revolutions per minute. The exhaust steam from the twenty-five horse-power engine passes among a large number of small pipes, through which the blower draws cold air. By the time this cold air has passed through the pipes, which comprise two thousand feet of steam heated surface, it has become warmed. The action of the blower drives the air from Power Hall through a twelve inch sheet iron pipe. The latter is to be laid along the building at a height of about eight feet from the floor. Suitable openings in this permit the air to enter the building. Three thousand feet per minute can be thus propelled.

"SUITES."

Two complete suit of gorgeous chambers, parlors, &c., are to be seen at the Exposition. They are in the gallery, on opposite sides of the building, and must come in for a large share of the visitor's attention. From kitchen to parlor they are replete with every appliance that wealth or luxury could suggest. It is intimated that they are put in as a practical "object lesson" or pattern for young folks, who seriously meditate a trial of "love in a cottage."

EXHIBITORS TAKE NOTICE.

The managers announce that after Friday no entrances for competition for premiums will be received, and persons desiring to enter articles for this purpose must apply at the office in the building before the time stated.

MORE OF IT.

The displays are increasing in numbers and are growing better in taste and arrangement. Thirty entries were made from Chicago expositors, as their show is over, and others have applied for space, but were unable to get it. Cincinnati also has sent on goods from its exposition, and the committee announce that all is now in that can be accommodated, though it has seemed, so far, that the Exposition was gifted with omnibus facilities for the getting in of an extra exhibitor.

"CHILDREN'S DAY."

The managers have set apart next Saturday for the especial benefit of the little folks. From 9 A. M. 6 P. M., all children will be admitted for ten cents each,—the other prices of admission, fifty cents for gentlemen and twenty-five for ladies, remaining unchanged. The juveniles, who generally have a keen eye to a bargain, will doubtless take full advantage of this opportunity to see the big show.

THE HORTICULTURAL PREMIUMS.

There was considerable of a flutter in the Floral Department all day yesterday, as it was the day fixed upon to award the premiums. The committee having this delicate and difficult task in hand consisted of Dr. A. H. Gross, Mr. Archy M. Marshall, and Mr. John Ferguson. They labored diligently, and concluded their work last evening. Messrs. Bochmann & Patterson, of No. 132 Smithfield street, entered for twenty-four first premiums, and out of the twenty-four succeeded in securing twenty-one, and three second premiums. Among those which they received was the first premium for best display and finest arrangement, a gold medal. This was the highest premium on the list. They also took the following first premiums: For best one hundred specimens in variety; best display of variegated foliage in variety and arrangement; best single specimen of Fern; best display of Ferns and Lycopods; best collection of new plants; best display and variety of Roses, in pots, in bloom; best single specimen of Roses in pots; best display of Dracenas; best collection of rustic work and filling; largest piece of rustic work filling; best fresh water aquarium. They also took nine other first premiums and three second premiums, but our space prevents a detailed enumeration. The contest was quite sharp and close, and the display by all the florists was, perhaps, the finest ever made in Pittsburgh.

FLORAL GEMS.

To the right of the main entrance the visitor will naturally stop and examine and admire the rare flowers which so profusely cover one of the stands of Messrs. J. R. & A. Murdoch. Language fails to describe the rare elegance of the flowers or the taste displayed in their arrangement; they must be seen. It is needless to add that at the competitive display yesterday afternoon this firm carried off both First Premiums, one for the best display of Cut Roses and the other for the Best display of Cut Flowers in Variety. These gentlemen make floral decorations a speciality.

BASE BALL.

Defeat of the Wheeling Standards by the Xanthas.

The Standard base ball club, of Wheeling, met with an overwhelming defeat yesterday afternoon, at the hands of the Xanthas. The game was played at Union Park. The base hits made by the Xanthas were twenty-two, fly catches eight, and missed flys none. The Standards made seven base hits, caught seven flys and missed four flys. The score is as follows:

THE COAL TRADE.

Some Interesting Statistics—The Business During September—The Present Outlook.

The Monongahela Republican of this week contains a carefully prepared statement of the operations in coal in the Monongahela Valley during September, and from which we make the following extracts:

There is but little improvement to note in the demand for coal, except in a retail way, and from what we can learn from coal men themselves, we find that the trade is rather duller than usual at this time of the year. The continued suspension of navigation is favorable to those having coal in the down river markets, by preventing an increase in the stock, and should navigation remain suspended for a few weeks longer, holders will most likely spring prices and reap a nice profit from our summer floods. We have already learned from Louisville that the prices there have been advanced to 9 cents afloat.

MARKETS.

The markets for Pittsburgh coal remain about as follows: The New Orleans quotations are by the boat load 35 cents per barrel, while the retail price is 50 cents per barrel, to steamboat and to families, 75, which is an advance of ten cents per barrel over last month. At Cincinnati, Ohio, and Louisville, Ky., Pittsburgh coal afloat is quoted at from 8 to 9 cents, and delivered to families at 13 cents per bushel.

The mining and shipping from the Pools of the Monongahela during the month shows an increase over the corresponding month last year, which looks well, considering the condition of our markets for some time back. The following list will show what our collieries were doing September 10th, since when other works have gone into operation, and soon there will be a general resumption:

POOL NO. 1.—Keeling & Co., works in operation; H. B. Hays & Bro., works in operation; J. Walton & Co., works in operation; J. D. Risher, works in operation; H. B. Hays & Bro., works in operation; Fawcett & Redman, rebuilding incline; Kennys, works in operation.

POOL NO. 2.—McClosky's works, Port Perry, old and out of use; Brown's Lower works, Saltsburg, in operation; Brown's Upper works, Saltsburg, idle; Works near Neel Mill, opposite McKeesport, in operation; Works at McKeesport, Ferry Landing, old and out of use; Stone's works, idle; H. Risher's works, idle; Lysle's Camden works, idle; Rock Run works, idle; Pine Run, Wood, Lynn & Co., in operation; Blackburn & Co.'s works, idle; Robbins, Jenkins & Co.'s works, idle; Farrow, Gumbert & Co.'s works, idle; Herculus works, Elizabeth, Pa., idle; Chell & Co.'s works, West Elizabeth, in operation; Horner & Roberts' works, Elizabeth, in operation; J. Walton & Co.'s works, West Elizabeth, idle; G. W. Jone's works, idle; J. Walton & Co.'s works, in operation.

Also two coke works at Saltsburg, supplied from the Connellsville coke region, are both in operation. We did not get time to extend our visit to that part of the Youghiogheny river, that is slacked by Dam No. 2, and which extends five miles above McKeesport, and where are located some of our most extensive coal works.

POOL NO. 3.—Hodgson & Mort's Works, in operation; Leechburgh Works, in operation; French's Works, idle; Cliff Mines, at Limetown, idle; Coal Bluff, at Limetown, idle; Buffalo Coal Works, in operation; Cleveland Coal Works, in operation; Old Eagle Coal Works, W. H. Brown, in operation; Mingo Coal Works, idle; Old Eagle Coal Works, idle; Dry Run Coal Works, idle; Catsburgh Works, making extensive repairs; Warner's Works, idle; Old Barr & Johnson Works, idle; Black Diamond Works, W. H. Brown, in operation; Robinson Bro.'s Works, idle; Victory Coal Works, idle and in bad condition; Harlem Coal Co.'s Works, in operation; Cocain's Works, opposite Dagg's Ferry, nearly completed; Staib's Works, below Bakertown, idle; Bakertown Works, repairing at present; Gilmore's Old Works, idle; Gilmore is building new works at the lower end of Webster; Guffey's Works, in Webster, in operation; Hodgson's Works, opposite Columbia, in operation; Iron City Coal Co.'s Works, in operation.

POOL NO. 4.—Rostraver Works, Clark & McAllen, idle; works of L. M. & W. F. Speer, Belleveruon, idle; Fremont Works, J. W. Clark, idle; Clipper Works, J. W. Clark, idle; Connecticut Works, Fayette City, idle; Corondelet Works, Frazer & Frye, in operation; James Rutherford & Co.'s works, in operation; Jos. Turnbull's & Co.'s works, in operation; Excelsior Works, R. Wellington, in operation; O. K. Works, R. Wellington, in operation; Forsythe's new works, idle; John Stoff's, late White Pine, in operation; American Works, F. H. Coursin, idle; Wood & Huston's works, in operation; Crow's works, in operation; J. W. Grubb's works, in operation; Smith's works, idle; Dexter Works, E. C. Furlong & Co., in operation; J. W. Reed & Co.'s works, in operation; Isaac Leadbeter & Co.'s works, in operation; J. S. Neel's works, in operation; Bigley, Forsythe & Co.'s works, in operation; Crowthers, Musgrave & Co.'s works, in operation; Morgan & Dixon's works, in operation; Garrow's works, in operation; J. C. Cunningham & Co., Brownsville, in operation.

In addition to the above table there were five barges coke in No. 2 pool, containing about 100,000 bushels coke, brought down from the Connellsville regions, via the P. W. & B. Railway. Also in addition to the above, there is a small amount of coal in the different landings below Lock No. 1.

During the month there were 793,500 bushels of coal shipped from the mines in Pool No. 4. Lock No. 4 closed for repairs September 22d and remained closed the balance of the month, and the above is the work of 21 days, but shows an increase over the corresponding month last year, when navigation was open during the entire month.

FIRE IN ALLEGHENY.

The North American Planing Mill Entirely Destroyed.

At eight o'clock last evening an alarm of fire was sounded from box 17, at the corner of Western and Irwin avenues, Allegheny, to which the department promptly responded, and found that the North American Planing Mill, on North avenue, west of Irwin avenue, was all ablaze, the flame pouring out in volumes from every window. As the adjoining property, which consists of board yards, cooper shops, &c., was in great danger, Chief Crow at once sounded a second alarm.

The fire had gained such headway before the department arrived, on account of the inflammable nature of the contents of the building, that it was at once seen the building could not be saved, but in a short time half a dozen good streams of water were playing upon it, and in less than half an hour the fire was almost extinguished. The entire building was destroyed with its contents and several piles of lumber lying alongside.

The building was a two story frame one, having a front of about sixty feet, and being about one hundred feet deep, and was owned by Messrs. Stedeford & Eicher. A large amount of machinery for planing and for sash and door making was in the building, with a large quality of made-up doors and sash, and a lot of dressed lumber. The loss of Messrs. Stedeford & Eicher is estimated at $12,000, on which there is $7,000 insurance, part of which is in the Ben Franklin, National and Iron City Insurance Companies, and part in a foreign company.

The safe belonging to the firm was dragged out of the ruins and everything in it found to be all right.

Two piles of lumber which were destroyed belonged to Messrs. W. F. Rynd & Co. and McCurdy & McGinniss, whose loss will probably reach $500 each.

The origin of the fire is unknown. Mr. Stedeford stated that it was one of the rules of the establishment to carefully examine the building every evening before closing up; that all fires had been fully put out, and therefore he can account for it in no way except that it was the work of an incendiary, or possibly a spark from some chimney in the neighborhood.

Chief Crow experienced some difficulty in getting enough water at first for the reason that the nearest plug to the fire was five hundred feet distant, and as a hose carriage only carries that many feet of hose he could only lay one line as each carriage arrived. A plug was ordered to be put in at the corner of Irwin and North avenues some time ago and had it been there two lines could have been laid with the hose on the arrival of the first carriage. This same scarcity of fire plugs is noticeable in a number of other portions of the city.

THE WOMEN'S CONFERENCE.

Second Days' Proceedings of the Third Annual Conference of the Womens' International Christian Association—Mrs. Smith's Address, Etc.

The delegates to the International Conference were all assembled, and the conference opened promptly at half-past 9 o'clock yesterday morning, in the Second Presbyterian church, where the session is being held, a half an hour having previously been spent in devotional exercises. The room was well filled, all the seats being occupied, and a few persons compelled to stand.

The President, Mrs. E. Lamson, presided. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read, and the hymn sung, after which the roll was called and the credentials of delegates who were not present the preceding day were received and acted upon. Forty-seven delegates from foreign associations are in attendance.

"Jesus keep me near the cross."

The report of the Committee on Rules for Government and Conference was presented and read by the chairman of the Committee, Mrs Terhune, ("Marian Harland,") but action on the report was postponed until the afternoon session, in order to give the large number who had come for that purpose, an opportunity to hear the address of Mrs. R. Pearsoll Smith, of Philadelphia, on "Personal Consecration."

Mrs. Smith prefaced her remarks with a prayer of great simplicity and earnestness. Her voice is clear and distinct, and she spoke in a familiar, colloquial manner, that quite charmed her hearers. We cannot attempt to report fully her address, which was listened to throughout with close attention.

She commenced by saying that she had been asked to speak on the subject of "Personal Consecration in Connection with Christian Work." She could not understand how there could be work for Christ without personal consecration. Her idea was that the only power for strength was through the knowledge that we were working for somebody. This consecration or surrender was an entire yielding ourselves to Christ, not in the fear that if we gave ourselves to Him, He would delight in severity. In the work that he calls upon us to do we will be furnished with the appliances necessary to perform it. The world has never said, or had cause to say, "No wonder God can do so much—look what he does it with;" but it has had occasion to wonder that so much is accomplished with the poor instruments used. The constant effort of every Christian worker should be, to be able to say "Thy will be done." And working in harmony with this will, that what was ordinarily termed "bearing the cross," became agreeable, congenial employment. We must not think because we enjoy our work, that it is not work approved of the Master. This view does Him dishonor and is contrary to His revealed character, as a loving Father. We must yield ourselves to Him that we may be beautified and transformed, even as the rough clay in the hands of the potter becomes molded into beautiful symmetry. Or, like the artisan who works blindly in the manufacture of Gobelin tapestry, and does not see the result of his work until he gets to the other side, so must we work on under the Divine direction and we will at last see the finished work.

These are but a few of Mrs. Smith's thoughts, want of space making it necessary for us reluctantly to abbreviate very much the address, which was certainly one of great excellence.

At the close of Mrs. Smith's remarks, she requested the audience to engage in a few moments of silent prayer, kneeling, after which she led in audible prayer. Rev. H. Thane Miller sang the hymn, "O, to be nothing, nothing," and shortly after the meeting adjourned to another room in the Church, where a liberal lunch was spread for the delegates.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session was opened with singing, led by Rev. Mr. Miller. The session was occupied with the discussion upon and the adoption of the report of the Committee upon Rules and Conference, and in hearing reports from many Associations throughout the country. The latter excited much interest, which was manifested in various questions on the mode of procedure in the work in the different cities.

In the evening Mrs. R. Pearsoll Smith gave a Bible reading in the auditorium of the Church, which was largely attended and thoroughly appreciated.

NOTES.

The regular officers of the Association are as follows.

President—Mrs. E. Lamson, Boston.
Vice President—Mrs. J. H. Winters, Dayton.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Thomas McFadden, Jr., Pittsburgh.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. M. H. Magoffin, Allegheny.
Treasurer—Mrs. W. P. Logan, Allegheny.

The church, and especially the room in which the Conference is being held, has been very beautifully and tastefully decorated with flowers, wreaths, hanging baskets, etc. The lady delegates are warm in their expressions of pleasure at the hospitable treatment that has been accorded them.

The Conference continues its session today. The chief item of interest will be an address by Mrs. Terhune, at two o'clock in the afternoon.

BREVITIES.

Paragraphic Pencilings of Passing Events.

····The crowd at the Exposition is increasing.

····The typhoid fever is spreading to an alarming extent on the South Side.

····The Haye(s) fever in Ohio on Tuesday was fearfully demoralizing to the Democracy.

····John Biglin, Englehart and Ten Eyck, three noted oarsmen, will be here on Saturday to see the race between Coulter and Morris.

····Thirty-seventh ward property owners are happy. The city authorities won't receive their taxes and Wilkins township can't get them.

····Felsinger, of Wheeling, and Peal, of Steubenville, have arranged for a three mile single scull race at the latter place, on the 23d inst., for $500.

····The members of the different Hartranft clubs will be at their respective headquarters this evening at 6:30 o'clock sharp, to join in the grand torchlight procession in Allegheny.

····Major Harry Hoffer, stamp clerk at the Pittsburgh Post Office, announces that they have received their supply of postal cards and can now furnish the public with all they may desire.

····Rev. Dr. DeHass, formerly of this city, now United States Consul to Jerusalem, will deliver his noted lecture, "Egypt and the Holy Land," this evening, at the Butler street M. E. Church.

····A boy named Edward Egan, 7 years old, fell from a shed on Tunnel street, near High, yesterday forenoon, and broke his right leg. He was removed to his home on Old avenue and Dr. Batton called.

····The American Iron Works have notified their boilers that a reduction of one dollar will made, to take effect at the end of thirty days. It is generally believed the men will accept and not strike.

····Yesterday morning a delegation of citizens called on Mayor Phillips and asked his action in the question of the removal of the stock yards from the Second ward, Allegheny. They expressed a determination to secure legal aid and enforcing the ordinance of Councils.

····A number of stock dealers at the East Liberty yards sent seventeen hundred and twenty dollars to Cincinnati and bet it on Hayes. They received a dispatch yesterday to draw for thirty-four hundred and forty dollars, less exchange. And yet the Post is not happy.

····An old man, whose name was not ascertained, was run over by a carriage last evening on Fifth avenue extension and carried into J. M. Blackbaries Drug Store. He was more badly scared than hurt, and in a short time wended his way home without assistance.

····Two articles in to-day's issue would have appeared several days sooner but for the absence of the individual member of our firm to whom they were addressed. Contributions intended for our columns should be addressed to the firm or GAZETTE in order to secure prompt attention.

····Our correspondent "G. D. H." at Salem, Ohio, writes: "Ten hundred and eleven (1,011) votes were polled here yesterday, being forty-eight (48) more than ever at once before. Seven hundred and thirty-one (731) of them were for Hayes. Eight octogenarians voted, and one of them gave his sixty-seventh annual vote."

····We have received the first number of "Literary Leaves," a publication which is to be issued monthly in the interests of the Allegheny County Literary Association—an organization representing the whole brotherhood of literary societies in the county. Messrs. S. W. Wall and T. F. Best are named as the editors and publishers. The initial number is a handsome one, typographically, and contains much matter that the members of our literary societies will find quite interesting.

····Mr. Charles Goddard, an insurance agent at Connellsville, was robbed of $133 yesterday morning, in a Penn avenue car. He arrived in the city on the Uniontown accommodation, and, having business in Lawrenceville, made his way to Ninth street, where he took a car. When he came to pay his fare his pocket book, with the above sum and several valuable papers, was gone. In another pocket was $380, which was untouched. Mr. G. states that the last time he had occasion to reach for his pocket book was when he bought a paper on Water street, near the depot.

PERSONAL.

David Reed, Esq., U. S. District Attorney, is lying ill at his residence.

President Grant will pass through the city to-day. He will not be at the Exposition as special business at Washington compels him to go directly through without stopping. This information was contained in a dispatch received by U. S. Marshal Hall yesterday.

FIFTY-THREE YEARS AGO.

Then and Now—Our First Exposition—Reminiscences of the Past.

We were shown yesterday a report of the opening of the first fair and Exposition held in Allegheny county, which is published in the fifth volume of the American Farmer, printed in Baltimore, in 1823. The volume is the property of Mr. David Macferron, of Allegheny. As anything relating to an exposition or fair is of interest to our citizens just now, we culled a few of the most interesting facts out of the report, and give them below. The article is headed "The Allegheny County Agricultural Exhibition and Fair," and is dated Wednesday, October 30th, 1822, and signed Harmar Denny, as Secretary of the Society.

The report opens as follows:

"In conformity with an Act of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, the first annual meeting of the "Society for the Promotion of Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures in and for the county of Allegheny," was held on Monday, the 28th inst., at the town of Allegheny, opposite Pittsburgh. The Society occupied the public grounds in the centre of the village, on one side of which enclosures were prepared for sheep and swine, and a temporary building erected for the exhibition of domestic manufactures.

At twelve o'clock the business of the day being opened by the Rev. Mr. Stockton with an appropriate prayer, William Wilkins, Esq., the President, delivered an interesting address, in the presence of a great concourse of citizens, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, after which the committees for the examination of the different subjects proceeded to discharge the duties assigned them."

Then followed a list of horses, colts, cattle, sheep, swine, &c., which were on exhibition, and also a long list of domestic manufactures. Under the latter head we noticed the following: 1 piece linen shirting, 30 yards, by Mrs. George Wallace, of Braddock's Fields, and another of the same kind by the same lady, 31 yards; 3 others containing 73¾ yards, by J. Melvin Ross; 1 piece, Miss Snodgrass, of St. Clair, and 1 by Mrs. M. Fleming, of Wilkins. Miss A. McClure, of Mifflin township, Mrs. Chess Ross and Mrs. Bat. O'Hara, of Indiana, each exhibited pieces of flannel from 24 to 30 yards in length. Wm. Arthurs, of St. Clair, had 3 pieces, ¾ yard wide, woolen cloth. A number of pieces of carpeting were exhibited by several ladies and gentlemen, and also quite a large number of persons exhibited woolen and thread stockings, straw hats, bonnets, and coverlets. Mrs. Mowry exhibited a handsome piece of table linen. Miss Mary Ann Irwin, of Franklin, Venango county, exhibited a white cape made from goose-down, which was much admired. Miss Weighley, of Hempfield township, Westmoreland county, exhibited two bonnets of her own making, which rivalled, in fineness and beauty, the best leghorn. Isaac Harris exhibited several pieces of Steubenville cloth, and also several pieces of Philadelphia manufactured calicos, which were superior in every respect to imported goods at the same price.

An U. S. 6 pound cannon, mounted, made in Pittsburgh by McClurgs & McKnight, was exhibited by order of Capt. Talcott, of the U. S. Arsenal, and also a very fine musket made at the arsenal.

On the following day the prizes were awarded, and among them we note, among the other prizes given to some of the ladies above mentioned, that Mrs. Fleming received a prize for superior industry in manufacturing coverlets, table linen and shirting, and Miss Haney also received a prize for thread lace made by herself.

Mr. Anthony Beelen received a prize for cigars made out of tobacco raised by himself from seed procured in Havana. Mr. A. W. Foster also exhibited cigars made from tobacco raised by himself near Greensburg.

The report closes by stating that "This being the first exhibition of the kind in the country, many were not prepared to enter into competition, and, therefore, the display of manufactured articles was deficient in number and variety."

The society return their thanks for the cordial spirit which the fair has received from all quarters, and the good sense and public spirit of the people at large, and the promise to make arrangements for a much better display in the following year.

We are under obligations to Mr. Macferrow for his courtesy in allowing us the use of his ancient volume from which the extracts given here have been culled.

THE VETO STILL PREVAILS.

Special Session of Select Council—Not Enough Members Present to Pass the Penn Avenue Interest Ordinance Over the Mayor's Veto.

A special meeting of Select Council was held yesterday afternoon, Mr. Braun in the chair. Its object was to consider the ordinance appropriating money in the Sinking Fund to pay interest on bonds issued under the Penn Avenue act. The following members were present: Messrs. Ahl, Ahlborn, Aiken, Anderson, Arnholt, Ballentine, Rodgers, Barckley, Bates, Braun, Breed, Brown, Bruce, Buckley, Clark, Clemens, Dannels, Darlington, B., Darlington, H., Evans, Fetterman, Fox, Froehlich, Harrison, Herron, Hunter, Sawyer, Kerr, Liddell, Littell, Metzgar, Finley, Moore, Murray, Musgrave, McCandless, McGimpsey, Negley, O'Neil, Hayden, Ray, Scully, Shipton, and Vierheller.

There not being a sufficient number of members present to pass the ordinance over the Mayor's veto it was decided to suspend the rules and take up unfinished business, trusting that in the meantime more members would appear.

The resolution passed in May last by Common Council providing for an expenditure of $125, in furnishing better facilities for reporters in that chamber was concurred in, on motion of Mr. Buckley.

A number of ancient reports from the Street, Survey, Appeals, City Printing and other Committees, acted upon by Common Council months ago, were concurred in.

Viewers' report on the opening of Homewood avenue, from Penn to Frankstown avenues. Approved.

Viewers' report on the opening of Washington avenue, from Brownsville avenue to the city line. Approved.

Viewers' report on the opening of Cliff street, from Cassatt to Ledlie streets. Approved.

Viewers' report on the opening of Grandview avenue, from Washington to Sherman street. Laid over.

Viewers' report on the opening of Brownsville avenue, from Carson street to Washton avenue. Approved.

Viewers' report on the damage done by the grading of Hazlewood avenue. Laid over.

Viewers' report on the opening of Carson street. Approved.

Viewers' report on the widening of Ann street. Approved.

Viewers' report on the assessment of benefits and damages on Eleventh street, South Side. Approved.

Plan of the intersection of Center and Winebiddle streets. Approved.

Report of the City Solicitor for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1875. Received and filed.

Viewers' report on the opening of Wilbert and Beatty streets. Approved.

Mr. MCCANDLESS moved that the clerk call the roll again, and if it should appear that forty-four members, the number of votes requisite to secure the passage of the ordinance, were not present that Councils adjourn. The motion was carried, and but thirty-eight members answering the chair declared the meeting adjourned.

MISSIONARY WORK.

Second Day of the Convention at the First Christian Church.

The second day's session of the Pennsylvania Christian Missionary Convention began at nine o'clock yesterday morning in the First Christian Church, corner of Arch street and Montgomery avenue, Allegheny

The annual report of the Board was submitted and read by Elder M. L. Streator, State Evangelist and Corresponding Secretary. It was quite lengthy. It gave a full review of the work of the past year. In substance it reported the work as progressive.

At the afternoon session the Chairman of the Committee on Future Work in the State, submitted a report containing a number of recommendations. The most important of these were in favor of the employment of a State Evangelist; raising of a Centennial Missionary Fund of one dollar subscriptions; laboring for a general revival. The recommendations were adopted and $300 was raised for the Centennial Fund on the spot.

The Committee on Nominations submitted the following as the Executive Board: President, Joseph King, Allegheny; Vice President, James Davis, Braddocks; Corresponding Secretary, Martin L. Streator, New Castle; Treasurer, Joel S. Goe, Allegheny; Recording Secretary, D. M. Klinter, Lock Haven; O. A. Bartholomew, Hazlewood; John McElroy, Washington; H. B. Goe, Allegheny; S. B. Williams, Allegheny; C. C. Forte, Philadelphia; James Chotham, Lock Haven; Dr. D. W. Evans, Ebensburg; B. S. Dean, Smithfield.

Delegates to the General Convention to be held in Louisville, Ky.: M. L. Streator, James Darsie, George H. Anderson and W. L. Hayden.

Philadelphia was selected as the place for holding the next annual meeting, providing it will be agreeable to the church at that place. If not, the State Secretary should select the place and time.

Rev. Thomas Munnell, Secretary of the General Missionary Society, preached a sermon to a large congregation in the church last evening.

To-day will be devoted to the Sunday School work. Rev. Frank M. Green, Secretary of the Ohio State Sunday School Association, is present, and will conduct the institute work.

An Unanswerable Argument.

The strongest argument which can be urged against the advisability of administering such corrosive and nerve-destroying poisons as arsenic and quinine for intermittent and remittent fevers, is the vastly superior success in the prevention and cure of such diseases of a medicine which is the very antipode of the above named drugs, both in respect of its composition and the results wrought by it. Such a medicine is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a purely vegetable preparation, which not only eradicates with wonderful promptitude every trace of fever and ague, and kindred types of malarious disease from the system, but is a certain preventive of all maladies begotten of miasma-tainted air and water. These results mineral anti-febrile remedies do not effect with certainty, and their continued use entails consequences highly pernicious to the system. The Bitters on the contrary, not only afford speedy relief, but establish health on a permanent basis.
